Also, cut to same patterns, gentlemen's REGULATION SERGE SUITS, from genuine regulation serges as supplied to the Military and Naval Service. Probably the most durable material manufactured. TWO THOUSAND BOYS' SUITS at FARMER'S, 7s 6d, worth 15s to 21s. There is a tremendous rush for these suits.

THIRTY SHILLINGS FOR ONE OF Farmer's best Bannockburn Tweed Suits for gentlemen's summer wear. These goods are splendidly cut, and made from pure, well-shrunk, Scotch Tweeds. They are the same in quality as were supplied during last summer at 36s 6d; the saving effected in the firm's London factory helping them, with a little closer profit, to quote the suit at 30s. The suits at 36s 6d are now made from pure Blair Athol and West of England Tweeds. An unlimited selection always on view. Present stock exceeds 2000 suits. FARMER'S only.

THE TROUSERS AT SEVEN AND SIXPENCE.—Gentlemen's pure Scotch and West of England Tweeds. The absorbing question is, "How are they sold at the price?" Well, there is a profit on them; a small profit, it is true; but one that quite satisfies Messrs. Farmer. There are 2000 pairs to hand, and more to follow. Every individual taste can be met in the assortment offered. STRICT INSTRUCTIONS have had to be given to the salesmen to sell NO TRADE PARCELS. Private buyers may buy a pair for every day in the week, or every day in the month, if desired. But, as Messrs. Farmer's endeavour is to save all intermediate profit to the consumers by enabling them to purchase DIRECT FROM THE PRODUCER, the trade need not make further overtures to purchase.

BEDSTEADS.—By far the largest stock in Sydney to select from. No inferior goods in stock, but buyers may depend on making their selections of first quality goods at the lowest wholesale prices for prompt net cash. FARMER'S Black and Gold Half-tester Bedsteads at 5 guineas have no equal at the price. They are made with handsome extending foot-rails and all modern improvements. Inexpensive Half-tester Bedsteads, 3 feet, from 28s 6d. FARMER'S only.

LADD'S CANVAS COTS

(as they are called in the States, but which are really full-sized stretchers or canvas bedsteads), are extensively used throughout the entire American continent. They weigh only 12 lbs., open and close as readily as an umbrella, make a perfect bed—no mattresses or pillows required—are better than any hammock, as they fit the body as pleasantly, and lay straight; are self fastening; just the things for hotels, offices, cottages, camping out, steamboats, &c.; good for the lawn or piazza; useful as spare beds, or for invalids. Price, complete, 12s 6d and 16s 6d prompt net cash.

SUN BLINDS at FARMER'S.—CHINESE and JAPANESE verandah blinds, all sizes in stock; lowest list in Sydney. The NEW EMPIRE blinds, as supplied to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, at Buckingham Palace. VENETIAN BLINDS, painted in any colour, or in natural woods highly polished, cheapest anywhere. OPAQUE BLINDS, at less than half price, excellent for summer use in halls, landings, staircases, bathrooms, &c. These blinds are made in green, slate, stone, drab, grey, &c., ornamented in gilt and choice colours, are mounted on patent check-action rollers, and quoted at the very low sum of 5s. each, prompt net cash. Blinds for FRENCH LIGHTS in any width, from 17 to 30 inches. FARMER'S only.

SOME OF THE CHOICEST CRETONNES ever submitted in Australia are now ready for inspection at Victoria House. A large purchase of inexpensive Cloths, in very chaste patterns, hitherto engaged exclusively to a large furnishing establishment in the West End of London, enables Messrs. FARMER to quote a nice range at 7½d and 10½d; prices elsewhere, 10½d and 1s 3d. Also some very choice French Cretonnes at 1s, 1s 3d, 1s 6d, 2s, and 2s 3d, all strictly wholesale prices for prompt net cash.

STUFFED-OVER OCCASIONAL CHAIRS, for the Drawing-room and Boudoir. The Langtry, 45s; the Dudley, 63s; the Beatrice, 70s; the Grandmamma, 84s; and others. The most marked success has attended the introduction of these fashionable chairs. There is room for one or more in every drawing-room. Unapproached for comfort, they form a marked contrast to the stiff, unused, gilded articles that formerly did duty for occasional chairs in many otherwise well-furnished rooms. Bijou Settees to match the above. FARMER'S only.

HALL FURNITURE.—Early English Hall Suites, choice art designs in Oak, American Walnut, Mahogany, Ash, &c. Inexpensive Hall Stands from 40s upwards. Hall Tables and Chairs. Gentlemen requiring hall furniture will see at FARMER'S a very varied assortment; and each item marked in plain figures at the lowest wholesale prices for prompt net cash.

Copies of prospectus and forms of application for shares can be obtained from the Brokers, Provisional Directors, or from any of the Branches of the Bank of New Zealand in this colony, until the 15th day of December, 1880, at which date all applications must be in the hands of the Brokers, when the lists will positively be closed and shares allotted.
Specimens of Caswell Sound Marble can be seen at any of the Museums in New Zealand; the Chamber of Commerce, Wellington; or on application to any of the officers of the Company.
In introducing this eligible investment to the notice of the public, the promoters desire to state that the Company's rights comprise the best, most available, extensive, and perhaps most valuable Marble deposits in the known world, at all events in the Southern Hemisphere. This is sufficiently proved by Caswell Sound Marble securing the first prize at the late Sydney Exhibition against Italian Statuary and other valuable varieties. They also wish to dwell upon its known certainty and non-speculative character, the ultimate success of this venture being now well established. The lowest quotation for this Marble is 12s per foot, and ranges up to £5. Larger blocks are, however, much more valuable, some pure White Statuary without flaws realising as much as £20,000 sterling in Europe; the ordinary price for a block suitable for a life-size human statue being about £1000. The present cost of producing this Marble by manual labour only is about 2s per cubic foot, f.o.b. These figures may appear incredible, but they are nevertheless absolutely correct. Thus, taking the cost of production as stated and the very lowest wholesale quotation at 12s per foot, gives the apparently fabulous minimum rate of 500 per cent. profit. It is, therefore, no visionary matter, as these are leading commercial lines and the values well known, the facilities of production, shipment, high quality of product, giving a vast advantage over any like property in the world. We will also venture to predict that the value of the company's shares will increase at least 360 per cent. within twelve months of issue. Referring to consumption of these commodities, it is also enormous. The consumption of Marble, Portland Cement, and Lime in the Australian Colonies alone during the last twelve months has been £2,872,600 sterling, and rapidly increasing. Caswell Sound is a commodious and safe harbour for the largest vessels in all weathers, the works of the Company being situated at the water's edge. The Government of this colony has also promised to favourably consider special grants and concessions in aid as soon as the Company is successfull floated. For further particulars as other minerals found at the Sound, copper, coal, gold, &c., also the manufacture of hydraulic cement, lime, &c., together with scientific, professional, Government, and other reports, with details of the objects and intentions of the Company, we refer to the Prospectus, which can be obtained upon application to the Company's agents, the Bank of New Zealand, Sydney, or at the office of this paper.

WHY THEY ARE SO SILENT. They are of the best material, most accurately made and adjusted, have no toothed wheels and shuttles, &c., which are the source of all the racket which jars the nerves. Their parts are for the most part self-regulating, and make up for want of skill in the operator, and are in every way more finished pieces of mechanism, as they combine thorough efficiency, greatest durability, and ease of working, with the utmost simplicity of using, and perfect silence while in operation.
THE AUTOMATIC SILENT SEWING-MACHINE of the WILLCOX and GIBBS COMPANY, with these parts to uphold it, will increase its already general popularity, and recommend itself to anyone wanting a first-class Sewing-machine.

THE GAINSBORO' TWEED SAC SUIT has many qualities that at once commend it to public favour. The Gainsboro' is a gentleman's suit that has been specially produced to meet the requirements of this season of the year. It is a soft, pliable, all-wool, comfortable wearing suit in three different mixtures, and although fully worth 57s 6d, is now being sold at 42s. The cheapest two-guinea summer suit ever offered. THOMPSON and GILES, Denison House, George-street, Sydney.

THE LINEN DUCK COAT is now firmly planted in public opinion as a desirable article for summer wear, either in the sac or military shape, with a roll or patrol collar. It is procurable in several descriptions of duck and drill, from 15s to 23s 6d. THOMPSON and GILES.

FOR A HOLIDAY, TOURIST, or BUSINESS SUIT, the GAINSBORO' SUIT is unequalled, being made of soft, neat, pliable Tweed, sitting easily to the figure. Two guineas the suit. THOMPSON and GILES, Denison House, George-street, Sydney.

SOME of the MOST USEFUL COATS for THIS TIME OF THE YEAR are as follows:—Dark Blue Diagonal Sac or Galatea Coat, of really good material, our own make, price 37s 6d; Summer Worsted Frock Coat, cool, comfortable, and gentlemanly, 48s 6d; nicely fitting Serge, Lounge, House, or Office Coats, good material, well made and cut, 10s 6d and 21s. Specially good quality Walking Coats, either for day or evening wear—in fact, the coat most generally worn by young or middle-aged gentlemen, 35s, 45s, and 52s 6d. THOMPSON and GILES, two doors north of General Post Office.

SOME REMARKABLY NEAT, useful, and seasonable Ready-made TROUSERS and VESTS are now just received from the workrooms, and marked at 25s for the trousers and waistcoat. These are in great demand, being nice, soft woollens, medium and light colours, specially suitable for washing. For stouter materials, useful for hard work and rough wear, nothing can equal the Geelong Trousers and Vest, at 19s 6d and 22s 6d for trousers and waistcoat. THOMPSON and GILES, Denison House, Sydney.

THE GAINSBORO' SAC TWEED SUIT, for business, holiday, or tourist's wear, unrivalled at the price, Two Guineas. THOMPSON and GILES.

THE TWO-GUINEA GAINSBORO' SAC SUIT, honestly worth 52s 6d., a complete range of sizes in stock. Illustrated plate sent by return of post, showing the shape of the Gainsboro' Suit. THOMPSON and GILES, George-street, two doors north of General Post Office.

A SPECIAL SHIPMENT of ENGLISH SUMMER WOOLLENS, imported at a price that will allow of their being made up in the well-known usual £3 10s SUITS. These tweeds are finding great favour, being the right substance and faithfully made; all-wool goods. THOMPSON and GILES, George-street, Sydney.

SOME VERY EXCELLENT BLACK CASHMERE COATING, for Clerical and Professional Wear, having almost the finish and appearance of cloth; but, being porous, is much cooler than the lightest Broadcloth. THOMPSON and GILES, Denison House, Sydney.

The whole of the returns are now in from the various polling-places. The total number of votes recorded is 962, of which 514 are for Ferguson, and 432 are for Bennett. There were 16 informal votes. The result seems to have hinged on a desire to return a local candidate.

THE HAWKESBURY ELECTION.

WINDSOR, MONDAY.

Mr. Johnston declared the official state of the poll to-day. It was the same as already announced—a majority for Mr. Bowman of 130. About 500 persons were present. Mr. Bowman returned thanks, as did also Mr. M'Quade. Mr. Bowman proposed a vote of thanks to the Returning-Officer, Mr. M'Quade refused to second it, whereupon Mr. Walker did so, and it was carried by acclamation. Mr. Bowman was then driven through Windsor by Mr. Gough, accompanied by Mr. Walker, preceded by a band; then went to Richmond, and thanked the electors there in an effective speech at Young's Hotel, and returned to Windsor amidst great enthusiasm. Mr. M'Quade said he would contest the electorate again if all went well until next election.

The official declaration of the poll took place at noon to-day. Mr. John See was declared duly elected. Mr. R. M. Ryan returned thanks for Mr. See. On Saturday last, when a rough state of the poll was announced, both Mr. See and Mr. Stevenson spoke. The state of the poll, as declared, has not altered the majority of 123 for Mr. J. See.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

A preliminary meeting of the electors of Cook Ward was held, at Cassidy's Victoria Hotel, Oxford-street, to support the candidature of Alderman Kippax. Mr. G. Whiddon, junior, was in the chair, and the room was inconveniently full. A resolution was moved by Mr. O'Neill, and seconded by Mr. Mackay,—"That this meeting pledges itself to use every means in its power to secure his return," which was carried unanimously. Mr. Kippax then addressed the meeting, giving an account of his past stewardship, during which he pointed out that he had served that portion of the city in the City Council for a period of seventeen years.

A committee meeting of the friends and supporters of Alderman Green was held last evening, at Mr. D. Robinson's Hotel, William and Palmer streets, when a number of influential electors attended, and formed themselves into a committee to secure that gentleman's return for Fitzroy Ward.

A meeting of the ratepayers of Fitzroy Ward was held last night, at Keary's Woolloomooloo Inn, William-street, for the purpose of hearing Mr. J. C. Beare address them, he being one of the candidates at the forthcoming election. At the close of the candidate's address, Alderman Hordern proposed, and Mr. T. Quinlan seconded, that Mr. J. C. Beare was a fit and proper person to represent the ratepayers of Fitzroy Ward, which was carried unanimously.

SIR HENRY PARKES'S COMMITTEE AND THE CIVIL SERVANTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you permit me, as one of the committee for the return of Sir Henry Parkes for the constituency of East Sydney, to disclaim any knowledge of the circular said by your correspondent "Quis" to have been sent to the members of the Civil service by the said committee, and which (if true) might inferentially be considered as an attempt to exact "tribute" money or "black mail?"

I attended each nightly meeting of the committee, and for six days had occasion to call frequently at head-quarters; and I can safely affirm, to the best of my knowledge and belief, that neither during the day nor at any nightly muster did such a circular as the one referred to ever emanate from any joint action of the committee. I am, &c.,

Sydney, November 29. WILLIAM COOKE.

Sir,—Although not having been favoured with even a requisition asking me to stand as member of Parliament, I cannot refrain from continuing to take an interest in the politics of my native land; and, with your permission, I will draw attention to a most serious matter, which cannot have escaped the notice of the Government.

Under the present foolish, disgraceful, and corrupt mode of election for Parliament it is well known any elector in his own name can vote two, three, or more times by merely going from one polling-place to another, and with very little likelihood of being detected. Dead men are personated to a great extent, and many an honest elector loses his vote, also by personation. Now, in the name of patriotism, I ask our new Parliament how much longer is this state of things to exist?

The remedy is so simple that it only requires honesty on the part of a Parliament to effect the necessary reform. Voting certificates are all that are required, and should be issued by the Government for every election.

Compulsory voting also is very much more necessary than compulsory jury attendance, and can be just as easily carried out.

Then comes the question of the propriety of Civil servants voting. Cannot appointments be made on condition that votes are given as directed? Surely the opportunity for this should not exist. What a powerful arm the Civil servants are in an election. But are they not part of the Government? And should a Government have the power to elect itself in opposition to the will of the people? I think not, and I have no doubt the great majority of Civil servants would much prefer being released from in some instances the apparent duty, and in others conditions which are most corrupt.

I now appeal to our Government and Parliament, if patriotic, to honestly deal with these questions without delay.

CLASS-BOOKS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Sir,—With reference to Dr. White's letter, published in your issue of this day, and to former correspondence from that gentleman on the same subject, I beg to state:—

1. That when the late Council of Education decided to substitute for Constable's series of school reading books another series published by Messrs. Collins and Co., they had no design or intention to secularize the system of public instruction with the administration of which they had been charged.

2. That the Council neither ordered nor sanctioned the withdrawal, discontinuance, or disuse of the school books published under the authority of the Commissioners of National Education in Ireland.

3. That the Council did not withdraw, alter, or in any way interfere with those books; but, on the contrary, retained them for the same purposes and uses as during the previous years of their administration, i.e., as the medium by which the general religious teaching required in terms of the Public Schools Act of 1866 was to be imparted.

I am further permitted to state that Sir John Robertson has already given directions that inspectors shall see that schools are supplied with the Irish National books, that the books are used in the ordinary instruction of the pupils, and that, at the annual inspections, the pupils shall be examined as to their knowledge of these books.

It is scarcely necessary to add that if the proper authority be informed of the name of any school in which it is supposed that the books in question are not used for the purpose for which they are intended, measures will at once be taken to remove all cause of complaint on that ground.

I am, &c.,

Sydney, Nov. 29. W. WILKINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In my letter in to-day's issue, in the sentence "on visiting some of our schools we find that the Irish National school books are in most classes the only ones in use," the words "Collins' school books" should be substituted for Irish National. And in another place, referring to the antiquated edition of the Irish books in use here, and the consequent absence of any earnest desire on the part of the Education department to retain the Irish National school books "as the best books in our schools," read "as the text books in our schools." It is practically impossible to have more than one reading book as a text book for each class, and I am prepared to show that Parliament has already virtually decided that the Irish National school books shall be the text books in our Public schools.—Yours, &c.,

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL.—Its Unequalled Efficacy in Consumption.—Dr. Sinclair Coghill, Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption and Diseases of the Chest, Ventnor, writes:—"For many years I have, in private practice, exclusively prescribed the Cod Liver Oil of Dr. de Jongh, from a large and intimate experience of its superiority as a remedial agent in appropriate cases to other cod liver oils, ignorantly lauded on account of their comparative tastelessness and lightness of colour. More recently I have had, in the Royal National Hospital for Consumption here, an opportunity of instituting a more extensive and systematic comparison, and I have convinced myself that in tubercular and the various forms of strumous disease, Dr. de Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other cod liver oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other cod liver oil, that Dr. de Jongh's oil was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit. Dr. de Jongh's oil is now the only Cod Liver Oil used in the Royal National Hospital for Consumption and Diseases of the Chest." Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. Her Majesty's schooner Sandfly made an unexpected appearance in Sydney Harbour yesterday, under the charge of Sub-Lieutenant Bradford, her commander, James S. C. Bower, having been murdered, with some of his seamen, at the Florida Islands. A narrative of the affair will be found in another part of this paper. The Sandfly sailed from Sydney on July 17th, and reached Marau Sound on August 1st, where it was expected H. M. S. Wolverene would be met with; received orders per Pacific from Commodore Wilson, and sailed for Blanche Bay; made a fine run of 6 days; remained there a few days, and gave the Conflict her mail and orders; sailed from thence to Savo to meet the Renard, but calm and adverse winds protracted the voyage to 17 days; and finding that the Renard had sailed, a boat after her was sent her with a mail. The Sandfly then proceeded towards Guadalcanar, light winds however drifted the vessel south of that island; watered the ship at Point Cruz, and ran the vessel over to Barranago, the south-east part of the Floridas. Commander Bower surveyed the island of Barranago, then visited Savo, made sail for the Floridas, and arrived there on the same date, and the ship refitted at Barranago; and Captain Bower, with the whaleboat's crew, went to an island (since named Savage Island) surveying. The surveying was continued on the 9th, and in returning to the ship a squall capsized the boat, and all hands had to swim for the shore; and but for the assistance rendered by the natives, it is probable that all of the party would have been drowned. The niggers saved the boat and gear, and on coming on board the Sandfly, Lieutenant Bower rewarded them with presents. During the 11th, the surveying was again proceeded with, and on the 12th, as it was difficult to get good anchorage, the Sandfly was sailed over to Tesemboko, on the Guadalcanar coast; anchored in nine fathoms, and furled sails. On the 13th the whaleboat started on her fatal trip, having four days provisions, but great was the anxiety on the evening of the 16th, when there was no return of the party up to dark. A consultation was held on the following day, and on the 18th the Sandfly and the gig started in search of the missing ones, resulting as we have elsewhere stated. Lieutenant-Commander James S. C. Bower formerly served as Lieutenant of Navigation on H. M. S. Danae when she came out two years ago. He was appointed on July 1st to the Sandfly, for surveying duties in the islands, to follow out work previously commenced by his brother, who went home in H.M.S. Raleigh.

The Argyle (s.) crossed the Clarence bar 6 a.m. on the 28th instant, passed Smokey Cape 4.45 p.m. same day, passed Port Stephens noon 29th, entered the Heads 1.30 p.m. Experienced fresh southerly wind, dull cloudy weather with head sea to Tacking Point, thence to port light variable winds and fine weather. She brings the following cargo:—740 sacks maize, 669 bunches bananas, 12 coops fowls, 12 cases eggs, 11 pigs, 116 hides, 5 casks tallow, 20 packages sundries.

The Omeo (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5.40 p.m. on the 26th; rounded Wilson's Promontory at 4.40 a.m. and Gabo Island at 11 55 p.m. on the 27th; and entered Sydney Heads at 5.50 a.m. on the 29th. Experienced moderate and light S.W. winds to Gabo Island, and fresh northerly winds from thence to arrival, with fine weather throughout the passage.

The Taramung (s.) left the wharf at 3.30 p.m. on November 26, cleared the Heads at 8.20 p.m., entered Sydney Heads at 10.30 p.m. on the 28th, and arrived at the company's wharf at 11.30. Experienced light S.W. winds and fine weather to the Dromedary, and fresh N.E. winds and fine weather from thence to arrival.

The Ly-ee-Moon (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 7.10 p.m. on the 27th instant, and entered Sydney Heads at 10 p.m. on the 29th. Experienced light southerly wind to Promontory, moderate and fresh N.E. and north winds to Brush Island, thence moderate S.E. wind to arrival.

The Cheviot (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5 p.m. on the 27th, and entered Sydney Heads at midnight on the 29th. From the time of leaving to reaching Montagu Island experienced fresh adverse winds and sea, from thence to arrival fresh S.E. winds and overcast.

The schooner Isabelle has returned from her usual cruise among the South Sea Islands. She is last from Rotumah, which port she left on November 11, having been detained there, off and on the island, for nine days, owing to bad weather. Experienced fresh E.S.E. winds for five days, the ship making good progress; passed between Hunter's Island and Mathew's Island on November 15; from thence to Middleton's Shoal had light easterly winds, and fine weather. Made the land at Cape Hawke on November 28th.

The Paramatta, ship, from London to Sydney, was spoken by the Parthenope (arrived at Melbourne) on September 28th, latitude 6·20 N, longitude 25.4 W.; also on September 30th, latitude 5·34 N., longitude 23·15 W, the ship Greta from London to Sydney.

A curious tale is told by Captain Roberts, of the Hermione, ship. On May 21, while on his homeward passage from Port Chalmers, and in lat. 46·38 N, and long 23·40 W, he saw and boarded a derelict, which was ascertained to be the Laboramus, barque, of Dundalk, with a cargo of pitch pine, water-logged, and presenting the appearance of having been set fire to in two places, the fore and mizen masts being burnt out. On arrival in London it was found that the captain and crew of the deserted barque had been picked up and brought to London, and that they had duly reported the desertion of the vessel, but had omitted to make mention of the attempt to burn her. It may have been a praiseworthy attempt to destroy her, and thus prevent her becoming one of those floating dangers of the deep which are now far too frequent in the North Atlantic. But if this be so, why such modesty in keeping their good deeds secret? The Hermione duly discharged cargo, and set sail again for Wellington, and on August 10, in latitude 44·11 N., longitude 11·7 W., she again came upon the deserted barque Laboramus, the only difference in her being the loss of her mainmast since the last interview. According to a calculation made by Captain Roberts, she had drifted between the two dates of speaking her (81 days) a distance of about 545 miles, or an average, supposing she had travelled continuously in the same direction, of 6·7 miles a day.

The China clipper Leander (says the Argus) is now in the Alfred Graving Dock, to have the damage made good which she sustained by touching the ground at the Heads recently. The injury consists of about 15 feet of the false keel being knocked away, and about 5 feet or 6 feet of copper being stripped off from under the keel forward. Now that the ship is in dock an excellent opportunity is afforded of examining her lines, which are very symmetrical, and the hull is, without doubt, one of the finest models which have have been seen here. Her perfect build and taut rig fully account for the flying passages she used to make in the China trade. Some time ago, however, her spars were reduced, and about 20 feet taken off the lower masts. The ship has evidently been well cared for during her career, for she is at present in really first-class order.

A steamer passed Twofold Bay, bound north, at 7.30 a.m. yesterday. The Tasman (s.) passed Gabo Island at 7.25 a.m.; and the Catherine Jane, barque, at 10.20 a.m. yesterday, both bound north. The Coraki (s.) passed Port Stephens, bound south, at 4.45 yesterday.

The Rodondo (s.) and Katoomba (s.) passed Wilson's Promontory, en route to Melbourne, yesterday morning.

The Louisa, schooner, from Newcastle to Kingston, S. A., called at Port Phillip Heads on the 22nd instant to land the captain, who was ill.

The schooner Princess Louise, of Sydney, was spoken at Savo, October 3, bound to Sydney via some of the islands.

ARRIVAL OF THE MISSING SCHOONER ARIEL.

The schooner Ariel, Captain Brodie, a well-known Solomon Island trader, has been missing for some time, and on the strength of a native report that the vessel was lost, and two of the crew poisoned, it was very generally credited that all hands must have shared the common fate of those who fall into the power of the islanders. Yesterday the Ariel arrived here, Captain Brodie and all hands being quite safe. Amongst those to give him a first welcome was his wife. We append Captain Brodie's report:—"Sailed from Sydney on the 25th March, arrived at the Solomon Islands on the 19th of April, and shipped 11 boys as labourers. Afterwards I recognized one of them (Jimmie Fiji) as one of the ringleaders in the Lavinia's massacre. On the 7th May I left James Martin and Thomas Evans at Marovo to procure island produce, I supplying them with trade and provisions. I told them I would not be back under five months. On the 27th May arrived in Simbo. The natives of this place recognised Jimmie Fiji as the ringleader in the Lavina's affair. The Simbo natives wanted me to put him on shore, which I would not do; but to pacify them I told them I would give him to the first man-of-war I came across. They were quite satisfied. During the night of the 29th May, being at sea or in the morning of the 30th, he was missing. We searched everywhere for him, but could not find him; whether he fell overboard or committed suicide we cannot tell; but we all suppose the latter. From the Solomon Group we went to New Britain; from thence to the Admiralty Islands, leaving the Admiralty on the 31st of August. Had very light winds back to New Britain; on the 15th September was boarded by Captain Murray, of the Loelia, cutter, and wished to be reported all well. On the 26th September arrived at Ronongo (Solomon Group); the chief told us that Captain Wolsch, of the schooner Venture, had been there, and told them the Ariel was lost. The chief asked him why he did not go and look for me and the crew; he told them his ship was too big; and as we arrived at other places in the group, Wolsch still told them the same story. Every place we arrived at the natives were astonished at seeing the ship and crew all right after the yarns they had been told. Arrived at Maravo on the 5th October, two days under the time I promise to be back; but to my surprise found James Martin and Thomas Evans gone. The native chiefs told us that Captain Schwartze, of the schooner Leslie, had been there, and reported the Ariel lost; he succeeded in getting all my copra (408 bags) and other island produce. The chief told me that James Martin and Thomas Evans had gone six days before in the schooner Zephyr (belonging to Schwartze) to gather up other produce belonging to me. I followed up the Zephyr, leaving Marovo the same night; caught him on the Guadalcanar coast. On the 9th October I boarded her, and found Martin and Evans on board. I took them on board the Ariel. Left the islands for Sydney on the 7th November; the first eight days we only made about 200 miles on our course; from thence to Sandy Cape had very light winds and calms; passed Cape Moreton at 11.30 p.m. on the 23rd, with a fresh northerly breeze. At 6 p.m. on the 24th November, abreast of Clarence Peak, wind shifted suddenly into the south, and blew heavily for the night.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Monday Evening.

In the Stock and Share market another very quiet day was reported. The transactions which took place indicated no change, and Friday's quotations are but little varied. In Banks there was a sale of New Zealand at 20¾; Joint Stock were held for 16½, buyers 16; City had sellers at 12⅝, buyers 12½; Commercial obtainable at 106, buyers at 105—for new issue 89 offered, no sellers; Mercantile had sellers at 6, buyers 5⅞; New South Wales wanted at 54, sellers 54½; for Union 64¼ offered, sellers 66; Queensland National had buyers at 7¼, sellers 7¾. In Steam, Australasian were held for 18½, buyers at 18¼; Clarence and Richmond were held for 5, and preferent stock for 14; for Hunter River 8 asked, buyers at 7½; Illawarra obtainable at 6¼, wanted at 5½; North Shore Steam Ferry held for 17s. 6d., buyers 16s. In Insurance, Australasian Accident held for 1s. 6d., buyers, 1s.; for Australian General 84s., and for Australian Mutual 8s. 6d., were buyers' quotations, but there were no sellers; City Mutual offered at 1s. 4d., buyers 1s.; for Mercantile Mutual, 1s. 6d. offered, sellers 1s. 9d.; New South Wales Marine had sellers at 80s., buyers, 72s.; Sydney Marine wanted at 33s., sellers 36s.; for United, 44s. 6d. offered, sellers 46s. Australian Gas were not affected by the electric scare, as were gas shares at Adelaide, but were as before held for 14¾, buyers 14½—new shares wanted at 5¼, sellers 6. Sydney Exchange had buyers at 9, no sellers. Pyrmont Bridge had buyers at 6¾, sellers 7½. Shale and Oil were offered at 10s. 6d., buyers at 9s. Volunteer land orders weaker, buyers at 132, sellers 135. In Coal, Bulli were quoted at 11¼ buyers, 12 sellers: Wallsend wanted at 14¼, sellers 14¾: Waratah held for 7¾, buyers 7½; Vale of Clwydd realized 16s. 9d. Great Cobar Copper had sellers at 83s., buyers 82s. Krohmann's Gold obtainable at 3s. 6d., buyers 2s.; Star of Peace could be had at 4s. 6d., buyers 2s. 6d: Band and Albion held for 5¼, buyers 5¼. For New South Wales debentures 111 offered.

In the Import markets a moderate amount of business was transacted. In breadstuffs trade was quiet, and no alteration in quotations is to be noted; Adelaide town brands sold at £12. Teas are going off in trade lots at full prices. The Jason's cargo of sugars has arrived to a firm market—Mauritius sugars, especially of white grades, having become scarce. The demand for dried fruits continues, and holders are firm, in anticipation of a brisk trade during the next month. Currants are selling in trade lots at 6½d.; we hear of a line sold, to arrive, being quitted at 6¼d. Elemes command 8d. in good parcels. In coffee a slight improvement is noted, and No. 1 is being sold at 11d. Sales of Cook's salmon at 7s. 9d. are reported. A good steady demand is noted for rock salt. There was considerable inquiry for fencing wire; of White Cross, No. 8, none obtainable on the spot. A good line of Nettleford's, to arrive, was sold—No. 8 at £14 12s. 6d., and No. 10 at £16 12s. 6d. Galvanized iron is moving off steadily, large parcels of Stork at £24; Braby's selling at £24 to £24 5s. A sale of Blackwall is reported at £24. A considerable line of IC coke tinplates sold at 21s. 6d. Sheet lead is inquired for at £20. For cornsacks there is some demand, and they have been quitted at 9s. 9d., 10s. being paid for small parcels. Soda crystals were sold, to land, at £7 12s. 6d. In liquids we hear of trade sales of Bull-dog ale at 10s. 9d.; and of Lager beer at 10s. A line of Lorne whisky was placed at 18s. The approach of Christmas has created some demand for champagne, and about 100 cases of Piper's were purchased at rates fully up to last quotations. 500 barrels of Robin's cement has been placed at equal to 18s. 3d.; Knight Bevan's in small parcels is selling at 20s., and for lots to arrive a little less has been taken. At the Darling Harbour sales, this morning, the supplies to hand were not large. Lucerne hay in trusses realized 2s. 3d.; there was no bale offered. For oaten in bale 3s. 4d. to 4s. was obtained, while truss fetched from 3s. to 4s. 3d. Chaff—there was only one truck in the market, and this brought 4s. 6d.; old potatoes, 2s. per cwt.; straw, 2s. 9d. to 2s. 11d; there was very little straw forward. There is any quantity of Hunter River lucerne in the market, and stocks are being continually added to. From £1 10s. to £2 5s. are about the prices. There is no oaten or wheaten in the market, nor yet is there any straw. Onions are worth from £6 to £7, and supplies are inquired for. Maize is very plentiful, and remains at from 2s. to 2s. 1d. Butter is almost a glut in the market, and 5d. for the best is all that can be got. Eggs are worth from 7d. to 8d.; millet brooms, 8s. to 10s.; bacon, in demand, 6d. to 7d.; cheese, 4d. to 10d.; new potatoes, Sydney gardens, 3s. to 4s.; Hunter River, ditto; Hunter River onions, 6s. to 7s. Poultry generally is in demand; fowls, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 9d.; ducks, 4s. to 4s. 6d.; geese, 6s. 6d. to 7s. 6d.; turkey cocks, 9s. to 12s.—turkey hens, 6s. to 8s.; honey, 3½d.

To-morrow Messrs. Fraser and Co. will offer for sale, at their auction rooms, a shipment of Baltic flooring and lining, and a quantity of other timber.

Messrs. Harrison, Jones and Devlin held their weekly sale of wool and sheepskins to-day. About 2500 bales of wool were catalogued, the sales at auction and privately amounting to 1500 bales. The high freights ruling continue to operate against the maintenance of the rates obtained two or three weeks ago, and as buyers were not disposed to yield, the lots held over were beyond the average.

At Homebush, to-day, about 620 head of fat cattle sold. The trade, being well supplied, did not buy freely, and no improvement on last week's rates is to be noted. Best beef scarcely realized 12s. per 100 lbs. Fat sheep, of which the number sold was 6300, continued also very depressed in value, bringing little if anything better than the prices of store sheep.

Some interesting facts are disclosed by a chart issued as a supplement to the British Trade Journal, respecting the British wool trade. Going back as far as 1850, it shows that the British import of wool then was 74,300,000 lbs., of which 39,000,000 lbs. was from Australia; and in 1879, it appeared that the quantity was 411,100,000 lbs., Australia furnishing about 284,000,000 lbs.; the import from these colonies having increased sevenfold in the 29 years, and relatively greater than that from all the rest of the world. The value of the wool fluctuated considerably, and to the extent of about 6d. per lb. in a few months. The lowest limit was in 1870, when Australian unwashed wool only averaged 7½d.; and the highest average price was obtained in 1857, when it was 15½d., from which it suddenly fell to 9½d. per lb. The chart reveals the further facts that the export of raw wool from England to other countries increased from 40,000,000 lbs. in 1861, to 240,000,000 lbs. in 1879, while the exportation of woollen manufactures, after steadily rising to £32,400,000 in 1872, declined rapidly until in 1879 the value was only £15,800,000.

Messrs. Dal. Campbell and Co. report having sold, on account of Mr. John Simson, the Conoble station, in the Lachlan district of New South Wales, comprising the following blocks of country, viz.:—Rankin's Hill, No. 5 and No. 6; Papatoitoi North, Papatoitoi No. 1, and Palmyra, together with 100,000 sheep, 159 head of cattle, 194 horses, purchased land, &c., at a satisfactory price—Mr. R. H. Woodward being the purchaser.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follow:—Spirits, 1363 1s. 6d; wine (still), £143 18s. 9d.; wine (sparkling), £95 15s.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottle), £232 17s. 6d.; tobacco and snuff, £53 8s.; unmanufactured, £517 10s.; cigars, £22 2s. 6d.; tea, £683 15s. 6d.; sugar, refined, £3 6s. 8d.; unrefined, £125 19s. 11d.; opium, £95 7s. 6d.; rice, £36 2s. 7d.; dried fruits, £857 10s.; nuts, £10 14s. 8d.; hops, £2 9s.; specific duty, £842 3s. 8d.; rent of goods in Queen's Warehouse, 1s. 9d.; pilotage, £8 13s. 8d.; harbour and light dues, £10 5s. Total, £5115 3s. 2d.

CUTICURA REMEDIES.

The success attending the use of these great remedies in the treatment of affections of the Skin and Scalp, with Loss of Hair is astonishing. From every part of the country come the most grateful acknowledgements of what might be called miraculous cures. Messrs. Weeks and Potter extend their thanks to all who have spoken a good word for CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and will thankfully receive reports of new cases wherever they occur.

SALT RHEUM ON BODY AND LIMBS.
OBLIGED TO GO ABOUT ON CRUTCHES.
A WONDERFUL CURE.

Messrs. WEEKS and POTTER: Gentlemen,—In justice to those who may suffer as I have suffered, and as a grateful acknowledgment of the cure I have received from the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I voluntarily make the following statement:—

I have had salt rheum on my body and on one leg in a very aggravated form for eight years. No kind of treatment, or medicine, or doctors, during this time did me any permanent good. My friends in Malden and elsewhere know that I have been a great sufferer, and that my condition at times has been such as to make me despair of ever being able to find a cure, or even a relief. In fact, when I began the use of CUTICURA my limb was so raw and tender that I could not bear my weight on it without the skin cracking and bleeding, and was obliged to go about on crutches. I commenced to use the CUTICURA in April, and at once realized its beneficial effects. It gradually drew the inflammation and humour to the surface, and as fast as it appeared healed it. At times large quantities would come to the surface, causing burning heat, inflammation, swelling, and itching, which, under the constant use of CUTICURA, would rapidly subside and heal. Each time these outbreaks grew less and less severe, and finally disappeared, leaving me perfectly cured. I used the CUTICURA five months and took the RESOLVENT most of the time, which were the only remedies I used. I think the RESOLVENT a very strengthening and purifying medicine to take in such extreme cases as mine, because the disease is so weakening to the system.
Very gratefully yours,

ECZEMA OF THE HANDS

CURED.—INTERESTING LETTER FROM A WELL-KNOWN ATTORNEY.—Editor New Orleans Picayune. Sir,—Since the fall of 1867, up to the last three weeks, I have been troubled with an eruption of the skin, which the doctors call by various names, but which is generally known by the name of Eczema or Salt Rheum. The principal place of attack was my hands, which at times, especially during the winter time, were very sore.

At times the disease threatened to spread from my hands and envelop my whole body. Doctors have been consulted in Philadelphia, Washington, and in this city, with no more success than a temporary relief. After considerable expense, and much pain and suffering, I had come to the conclusion that I would, as the saying goes, have to grin and bear it.

About four weeks ago I read in the Picayune the advertisement of Cuticura, for sale by our well-known druggist, Mr. Lyons, and resolved to try it. I purchased a 50-cent. box, and before it was half used the disease had completely disappeared, and I feel certain that mine is a permanent cure.

My object in sending you this letter is to make known to other sufferers the value of CUTICURA, and thus benefit, if ever so little, suffering humanity.
Yours truly,
P. F. CARROLL,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

SUMMARY OF NEWS FOR AMERICA AND EUROPE.

The summary of news for transmission to America and Europe, per R. M. S. Zealandia, will be published in Thursday's Herald. Orders for extra copies should be lodged with the counter clerk to-morrow. The mail for newspapers closes at noon on Thursday.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1880.

The disaster which has befallen the commander and five seamen of H. M. S. Sandfly is the saddest that has reached us since the massacre of Commodore Goodenough. There seems to be too much reason to believe that this catastrophe has also been the outcome, if not of a want of forethought, of an excess of confidence in a treacherous and savage race. We know that it is always easy to be wise after the event. The fact must not be overlooked that those who would hold intercourse with native races must, to a certain extent, put their trust in them. It cannot be forgotten, however, that the Solomon Islanders have acquired for themselves a savage pre-eminence. Even if that were not the case, the stories of massacre which have reached us from the islands of late ought to be sufficient to teach Europeans the folly of placing themselves at the mercy of the natives. The account of the Sandfly disaster is a short one, and circumstances besides those which are reported may be necessary to a complete knowledge of the case. But if the statement made by the sole survivor be correct—and of that there can be little doubt—the unfortunate commander of the Sandfly seems to have acted with less prudence than might have been expected from an officer in his situation. It is stated, for example, that on reaching Nogu Island the company from the Sandfly hauled the boat up and had tea there. This being done, two of the men went to bathe, two others, with the captain, went along the beach, the sixth man being left to look after the boat, the firearms which the party had brought with them being left in the boat. The result was pretty much what might have been expected. The party were surprised. A crowd of about fifty natives surrounded the boat, a second set of savages attacked the men on the beach, and a third the two men who had gone into the water. The commander fled to the branches of a tree, and there found a refuge for the night, but was shot down in the morning by means of his own firearms. The lesson from all this is a sufficiently simple one, and it is to be hoped that it will not be lost upon those who may find it necessary to visit the group where the unfortunate captain and men of the Sandfly met their fate. The case supplies us with another illustration of the fact that the policy of venturing upon an island of bloodthirsty savages without arms, and even without suspicion, may be carried too far.

But it is evident that, if commercial intercourse is to be carried on between these colonies and the South Sea Islands, something besides prudential measures will have to be adopted. There has hardly been a month or a fortnight of late without its story of a South Sea Island massacre. The natives are discovering that they can murder white men with impunity, and, thus encouraged, it is not surprising that they murder them whenever an opportunity is offered. The evil is becoming a little too common and too serious. There is no evidence that it has given much concern to the authorities at home, but it is possible that the attack which has been made upon the British flag will produce the conviction that it is one which calls for both a prompt inquiry and for an effectual remedy. There is a growing feeling to the effect that sufficient protection is not afforded to ordinary traders in the South Sea Islands, and atrocities like the one we report to-day will serve to show that there is insufficient protection for the officers of justice themselves. It ought not to be too much to expect that in a well-ordered nation like ours there should be ample means either for preventing these massacres or for punishing the perpetrators of them; but in reply to this the naval authorities in England would say that they have a great deal else to think about just now, and that the South Sea Islands are a long way off. It must be confessed that it is much easier to complain of these South Sea Island atrocities than it is to divine the cause of them, or to put a stop to them. There are those who tell us that there is a common law of retaliation in the South Seas; and that, if the facts were known, all the misdeeds of the islanders might be traced to misdeeds on the part of traders. Others, however, who claim to understand the South Sea islanders, tell us that there are sections of them who perpetrate atrocities for no other reason than that they delight in blood, and those who read such reports as the one which we publish this morning will have no difficulty in coming to this conclusion. The effectual cure for these atrocities is, of course, to be found in civilization or in Christianity. But civilization is a slow process everywhere, and it is specially slow among savages like those of the South Seas. We have been trying to civilize these races for half a century past, but the area of our operations is still comparatively small. Civilization in regions like these is more easily talked about than accomplished. The same, to some extent at least, may be said of punishment. It is easy enough to throw a few shells into such a group as the one which has been the scene of this outrage; but if the shells do any execution at all, they are as likely to reach the wrong parties as the right ones. They may do mischief to the savages who inhabit the coast, but this is no lesson to those who fly to the interior. The whole subject is surrounded by difficulties; but for that reason it is worthy of more attention than it generally receives in England. The philanthropists of the mother country are generally ready with a protest when the blacks receive injuries from the whites, but, as a rule, they do not show any great concern when the injuries are in the other direction. There is a good deal that is defective in this one-sided philanthropy. It is not desirable that we should have one law for civilised races and another for savages. If we punish the whites for the wrongs they do, we are bound to see that the blacks are punished likewise. But this is not what we are doing. Savages, like those who people the Solomon group, have for some time past been showing the world that they can kill and eat white men, and go unpunished.

The Dulcigno difficulty may now be supposed to be at an end. It has been no secret that the delay there has been is attributable less to the Albanians than to the Turks themselves. The former could have offered no successful resistance to the Montenegrins if the latter had not given them encouragement and aid. The Albanians, it is pretty well known, have been strengthened by Turkish Volunteers and assisted by Turkish money. They have, moreover, been urged on at the bidding of the Turkish ruler. The resistance to the Powers has not been the work of the Porte, but of the Sultan. During the negotiations of the last few months, one Turkish Minister after another has been dismissed, ostensibly to remove obstacles out of the way, but in reality the more successfully to multiply them. While the Ministers were being removed the Sultan was strenuously endeavouring to do the very thing he was supposed to be dismissing his Ministers for doing. Armed with the authority of his Sovereign, Riza Pasha threatened to fire upon the Montenegrins if they attempted to go near Dulcigno. This threat has been persisted in week after week, and by a General who was within reach of the guns of the combined squadron of Europe. The strength of the Turkish force at Dulcigno has been about 6000, that of the Albanians has been variously estimated at from two to seven thousand. The Montenegrins had an available force of about eight thousand. From this it will be seen that although able to cope with the Turks or the Albanians separately, Prince Nicholas was hardly in a position to wage a crusade against both combined. That step he declined to take without the offer of substantial assistance from the Powers, and this assistance the Powers have not been in a position to give. Here, then, has been the situation. For weeks and even months past, Montenegro, with the Powers on her side, has been seeking to get into Dulcigno, while the Albanians, with the Turks on their side, have been seeking to keep her out, and until last week the Turks and the Albanians were masters of the situation.

The reason is plain enough. Riza Pasha threatened to fire upon the Montenegrins because he believed that, do what he would, the Powers would not fire upon him. The Sultan has dared united Europe, because he has been under the impression that united Europe was not in earnest, and that when it came to the point the concert of the Powers would collapse. It was a matter of no consequence that the Treaty by which territory was ceded to Montenegro was signed by Turkey as well as by the Powers. The word of Turkey has never been her bond. The Sultan has acted on the principle that all is fair in diplomacy. The Turks were in possession of Dulcigno, and they have been under the impression that by a little manœuvre they could retain possession. In other words, they had a shrewd suspicion that the Powers would not agree to proceed to extremes, and that they would be able to keep Dulcigno after all. It is impossible to deny that they had some plausible reasons for coming to this conclusion. An influential portion of the Press of England has been proclaiming that the European concert was a sham, that it ought not to have been attempted, and would come to nothing. France, it is well known, had ordered her Admiral in the Adriatic not to fire a shot, and that alone was a sign of possible conflict among the Powers themselves. Austria, having secured two of the fairest provinces of European Turkey by the Berlin Treaty was doubtful whether well ought not to have been let alone. The only two Powers that were supposed to be really in earnest over the Dulcigno affair were England and Russia, and the Sultan had some ground for concluding that an alliance between them was in the last degree unlikely. On one or two occasions during the last few months the tension among the Powers has been carried nearly to the snapping point. But the report circulated some time ago to the effect that the European concert had broken up turns out to have been premature. It now appears that none of the Powers has really withdrawn from the union. Although differing as to what they should do they have been agreed as to the necessity of doing something. One alternate proposal has been to give material aid to Montenegro, another to dispatch a fleet to the Bosphorus, a third to bring about a compulsory sequestration of a portion of the Customs revenues in Asia Minor. Some experiment in one or other of these directions would possibly have been attempted if the Sultan had persisted in his obduracy. Whatever might have been the exact steps taken, the Sultan was at last made to see that the Powers were in earnest, and that resistance would make his case worse, not better. Even France, although she stood aloof, when the moment came for making a naval demonstration, a naval action, maintained that the parties to the Berlin Treaty were bound to see to its execution. This conviction has at last dawned upon the Turk himself. Hence, instead of firing upon the Montenegrins, RIZA PASHA has fired upon the Albanians, and Dulcigno has been given up.

The affair would have been a small one after all if the mere cession of Dulcigno were the only question involved. It is almost needless to say that it is nothing of the kind. Important as this small seaport in the Adriatic is to Montenegro, in the controversy of the last few months it has been but the arena of a contest between the Turks on the one hand and the European Powers on the other. The great question to be settled has been, not what should become of Dulcigno, but what should become of the Treaty of Berlin. It is well known that the territory that includes the town of Dulcigno was not the territory that this treaty gave to Montenegro. The districts assigned to Montenegro were those of Gusinje and Plava. Some objections having been made against the transfer of these districts, it was proposed that Montenegro should have the territory lying between Podgoritza and Skutari. Exception was taken to the transfer of this also, and Dulcigno was proposed as a last resort. It will be remembered that this was one of the three places taken by the Montenegrins in the war of two or three years ago, the other two were Spizza and Antivari. It is stated that the great bulk of the Dulcigniotes were content with Montenegrin rule. By the Powers who have undertaken to preside over the destinies of Europe, however, Spizza was given to Austria and Dulcigno was handed back to the Turks. It was but right that the signatories to the Berlin Treaty should give the mountaineers some equivalent for what they had taken from them, and it was for the convenience of the Turks that the cession of Dulcigno was decided upon. If the Turks had resisted the concession to Montenegro, so far as they were concerned, the Treaty of Berlin would have been null and void. The contention of the English Government has been that in resisting the carrying out of the treaty Turkey was her own enemy, since the outcome of prolonged resistance would not be her triumph, but her defeat. That view has, it seems, been lately taken throughout Europe. "The organs of the French, Italian, Austrian, Russian, and German Governments are repeating to-day what Mr. GLADSTONE almost alone of European statesmen had ever the insight to discern and the courage to declare, that the employment of that concert to compel the Sultan to execute his treaty engagements was the best security for European peace, and the only means of preventing the violent destruction of the Ottoman Empire." The soundness of this view must now be admitted. If Turkey had held out there must have been coercion from some source or other, and for Turkey coercion would have meant defeat, if not annihilation. The interest which this new phase of the Eastern question will have for the world generally is traceable to the fact that the subjection of the Turk has been brought about not only without a European war, but without the collapse of the European concert.

According to the Argus, the stock-tax, which was intended to benefit the small grazier of Victoria, is, in one respect at least, acting very injuriously to him. There used to be a considerable trade in the purchase of store sheep from Riverina by farmers who fattened them for the Melbourne market, but as the tax of sixpence a head is a fixed and not an ad valorem charge, it is proportionally heavier on store sheep than on fat sheep. The consequence is that it pays the Riverina and the Queensland graziers better to send their sheep into Victoria fat than to send them as stores. The Victorian grazier, therefore, finds that he has less scope than before for purchasing store stock, while the market for fat stock is better supplied than before. He has, therefore, to buy in a dearer market, and sell in a cheaper one. There is nothing remarkable in such an outcome of the protectionist policy. It is an artificial arrangement, and when men set themselves up to be wiser than nature they very often discover that there were many things that they had overlooked, and that their interference has altered a great deal more than they had intended. A pebble thrown into a pond does more than sink to the bottom—it makes very wide circles.

In the Board of Trade returns for the present year the following statement occurs:—"While the proportion of British shipping in 1860 was only about 47 per cent. of the shipping of the world, it is now about 58 per cent., the tendency being for the proportion to change still more rapidly in our favour." The explanation furnished is, that the tonnage of the shipping owned in the British Empire may be reckoned at 8,500,000, equal in effectiveness to 16,000,000 tons, whilst that of the rest of the world is computed at 8,200,000 tons, equal in effectiveness to only 11,000,000. The degree of effectiveness is, of course, governed by the relation of the vessels using steam to those sailing under canvas. For certain reasons to be given, the British mercantile marine is being transformed more rapidly than that of any other nation from sail to steam. The first great stage in the march of improvement was the substitution of iron for wood in the construction of vessels. It is in Great Britain that the greater part of the iron ships of the world have been built and fitted with their engine power. The tonnage of the sailing vessels employed in the home and foreign trade has decreased, and that of the steam vessels has increased, until the surprising result has been reached of a not very large island owning a merchant navy superior in every respect to that of the rest of the world. The reason why "the tendency is for the proportion to change still more rapidly in our favour" will be found in the fact that the iron steamship of to-day will not be the model vessel of the future. It is stated in an interesting article on this subject in the Times that, after expending enormous sums of money over the attempt to produce the kind of steel requisite for shipbuilding purposes, one has been discovered that will stand the tests required by Lloyd's, the Liverpool Underwriters' Registry, and the Admiralty. It must not exceed 30 tons nor fall short of 26 tons in tensile strain, and every piece supplied for a vessel must bear a stamp, denoting "that a shearing from the plate or angle so marked has been successfully bent cold, after being tempered as described in the temper test, and that the plate or angle in question is capable of withstanding the whole of the tests." The advantages claimed for steel over iron are that the vessel may, on account of her superior strength, strike rocks or other obstructions which would inevitably wreck her if she were built of iron; that, being so much lighter, she is of greater carrying capacity, and therefore more profitable on every voyage; and that, as every plate or angle is of the best possible quality, the surest guarantee is taken that her construction is as nearly faultless as possible. This was not the case with iron ships, the description of metal often used in even first-class vessels being so inferior that in the trade "ship plates" became known as an almost synonymous term with nearly worthless material. The enormous cost that was incurred, and the tremendous difficulty that was experienced in procuring a "mild steel" suitable for shipbuilding purposes have been followed by the advantage of tests being required of the quality of the metal employed. Of course, the use of steel for ship-building purposes is as open to the foreign as to the British constructor; but when the two facts are fully considered—that in the construction of iron vessels Great Britain has been far in advance of the remainder of the world, and that building enormous steel steamers will require a still heavier outlay for plant, and be attended with still greater expense, there seems every probability that the anticipations of the Board of Trade respecting the still further extension of British shipping in proportion to that of the rest of the world will be realized. The fact of the recent concentration of the ocean-carrying trade of the world in the hands of British merchants and shipowners is worthy the consideration of those politicians who seem to find a pleasure the very reverse of patriotic in telling us that the decadence of British commercial supremacy has already set in, owing to the misguided fiscal policy of those great statesmen whose names the world has delighted to honour.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

OUR cable messages of this morning are chiefly taken up with the Irish question. Additional reinforcements of troops have been ordered to Ireland, a fact which in itself sufficiently indicates that disaffection amongst the people of that country is spreading rather than diminishing. Earl Granville has been addressing the people of Hanley, in Staffordshire, on the action of the Government in regard to the disturbed state of Ireland. He declares it to be impossible for the Government to allow the present lamentable state of affairs to continue, and they are consequently seriously considering as to the best means to be adopted to meet the difficulties of the situation. After Parliament meets, on the 6th January, the Government will introduce measures, the aim of which will be to provide for the future happiness of the Irish people.

IN our supplement will be found a full account of the latest massacre of British subjects by Solomon Islanders. In this instance the victims were an officer and five seamen of her Majesty's navy. They were attached to the schooner Sandfly, which arrived in port yesterday, bringing the sad tidings.

THE elections in sixty-one out of the seventy-two electorates of the colony have now been completed, leaving eleven more to take place. Eighty-seven members have been returned, out of the 108 required to form the new Legislative Assembly. To-day is polling-day for The Bogan, Bourke, Gundagai, and the Upper Hunter.

THE Parliamentary elections for the metropolis are no sooner terminated than the citizens are called upon to involve themselves in the excitement of the Sydney municipal elections. A large number of gentlemen are in the field aiming at the distinction of being aldermen, and nightly are propounding their views regarding the steps they think should be taken to improve the city, and to maintain its streets, footpaths, and by-ways in proper order. For Brisbane Ward Mr. Charles Field and Mr. John Taylor have been nominated; for Macquarie Ward Mr. Robert Butcher, Mr. U. W. Carpenter, and Mr. Charles Kidman; for Cook Ward Mr. W. Kippax and Mr. Alexander Steel; for Fitzroy Ward, Mr. J. C. Beare and Mr. James Green; and for Phillip Ward, Mr. W. Cary and Mr. Andrew Wadsworth. Messrs. Joseph Carroll, W. J. Clarke, and T. W. Craven are in the field for election as auditors. His Worship the Mayor, who will officiate as returning-officer, has intimated that balloting for aldermen and auditors will take place on December 1, in the wards for which there is more than one candidate.

THE Fourth Term was commenced yesterday in the Supreme Court. Before their Honors the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Hargrave, and Sir William Manning, a number of ex parte matters were dealt with, and a rule nisi for a new trial was granted in Keefe v. Halbish, on points raised and reserved at the trial. After the Full Court had risen, his Honor Sir William Manning, in the Banco Court, resumed the trial of "The Oriental Bank v. O'Brien," for costs incurred by the bank in investigating the defendant's title to portions of the Underwood estate, on which he was seeking an advance from the bank. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant. In the Divorce Court, the suit Dibbs v. Dibbs was commenced.

WE have been requested to state that printed copies of the regulations as to the conduct of the business in the Equity Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, lately made by his Honor the Primary Judge, may be obtained on application to the Chief Clerk, Mr. P. C. Curtis.

THE City Council announces by an advertisement elsewhere, that on Wednesday (to-morrow), the supply of water will be cut off between half-past 5 in the morning and 6 in the evening, from Paddington, Darlinghurst, Woollahra, Redfern, Surry Hills, and Fort, Prince, Cumberland, York, and Oxford streets.

A SUPPLEMENT to the Government Gazette published yesterday contains a long list of claims for pre-emptive leases.

THE ordinary weekly meeting of the Citizens' Committee on the Kenny Hill gravitation scheme took place yesterday morning, at the Town Hall, Alderman Withers was in the chair, and all the members were present. Several subscriptions from suburban municipalities and private citizens were announced. The attention of the committee was drawn to the fact that the Harbours and Rivers Department had recently taken an important step which, if carried out, would compromise the integrity of the Kenny Hill scheme, and in a degree commit the country to the low-level Prospect plan. This was held to be a direct violation of the pledge given by Government; and Messrs. Withers and Poole undertook to see Mr. Lackey without delay, with a view to a deputation in reference to the matter. The following was the resolution:—"That steps be taken to induce the Government to withdraw the contract for the 6th section of the Upper Nepean Water Supply Works, pending the result of the general inquiry now being made; as, in the opinion of the committee, it is extremely undesirable that thirteen feet head be lost."

A lengthened discussion also took place with reference to already acquired experience with reference to the use of pipes in large water supply schemes; and it was determined to place all available information on the subject in such shape as would enable Parliament and the public to form a correct judgment on this important branch of the question.

A LARGELY attended meeting of old Christ Church parishioners and other friends of the Rev. Canon Walsh (who, after an absence from the colony of some sixteen or seventeen years, is on his return voyage and expected to arrive about the 18th December), took place last night in Christ Church school, to consider as to the propriety of offering a public welcome to the rev. gentleman on his return to Sydney. The Rev. Mr. Garnsey presided, and, in a brief address, expressed his high gratification at the prospect of soon meeting with a gentleman than whom no one was ever more loved, or in his absence more missed than the Rev. Canon Walsh, whose going from the colony was one of the greatest misfortunes that ever befel the colonial Church. He was delighted, therefore, to see so large a company present to consider on a fitting way of expressing their appreciation of Canon Walsh's character, and of his successful labours in connection, especially, with the Church's work in this parish. Lengthened conversation ensued, in which Messrs. M. H. Stephen, R. Guy, J. V. Lavers, H. Smith, W. Long, and other gentlemen took part, offering suggestions as to the more appropriate mode of receiving their friend. The leaning ultimately seemed to favour the proposal to meet the rev. gentleman on board the vessel, to escort him thence to the schoolhouse for the first interview, to be followed by a public thanksgiving service, to be held in the church. In the end an executive committee was appointed to consider of the manner of reception which may be thought most to accord with Canon Walsh's feelings and views, such arrangement to be subject to the approval of the general committee, comprising all the parishioners then present, and a number of other gentlemen who had promised co-operation.

A MEETING was held, at the Exchange Hotel, last night, with a view to raise funds to enable Laycock to meet the Champion of the World on the terms Hanlan has imposed—namely, £1000 in addition to the regulation stakes. Mr. Richard Hill occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance. The sum of £551 was realized in subscriptions, which it was resolved to transmit to the editor of the Sportsman, with an intimation that more was to follow.

THE final general meeting in connection with the watchmakers' and jewellers' picnic, to take place at the Sir Joseph Banks Hotel, Botany, on Thursday, was held last evening, at Hunt's Hotel. It was stated that all the principal watchmakers and jewellers in the city had agreed to close their establishments on the day of the picnic.

THE fifth annual picnic of the fishermen and oystermen of the city was held yesterday, at the Sir Joseph Banks Hotel, Botany, and enabled about 150 persons to have a very pleasant outing. The party started at about 10 o'clock in five large omnibuses from the Town Hall, accompanied by the Young Australian Band; and notwithstanding that the weather was very oppressive, the drive out was not the least pleasant part of the proceedings of the day. On arrival at the ground, the usual sports and amusements were entered into with zest, dancing attracting the greater part of the company, and with the exception of the luncheon hour, were kept up with spirit until evening. Mr. James Lawler presided at the luncheon, and was faced by Mr. Assenheim in the vice-chair. Amongst the visitors were Messrs. A. Cameron, D. O'Connor, and A. R. Fremlin, M.L.A. After the usual loyal toasts had been drunk, the chairman proposed the "Parliament," which was responed to by the members present, Mr. Cameron saying that the fishermen and oystermen deserved protection from the Legislature; and he would support any movement having that object in view. The toast of the "Fishermen and Oystermen" was proposed by Mr. Fitzgerald, and responded to by the chairman. After several other toasts had been drunk, the company returned to their amusements, not the least attractive of which were some clever feats performed on the tight-rope, and with Roman rings, by Messrs. Wambold and Braham. The company returned to town about 7 o'clock, nothing having occurred to mar the general pleasure.

THE fourth anniversary of the Loyal Alexandria Lodge, No. 57, I.O.G.T., was celebrated last night by an entertainment in the Congregational Schoolroom, Woollahra, which was well attended; the chair being occupied by Mr. L. E. Harcus, G.W.C.T., who was supported on the platform by Mr. J. Davies, C.M.G., M.L.A.; Rev. W. Bradley, W.G.C., Messrs. A. Allen, W. B. James, and A. C. Quaife. A very good programme had been prepared for the occasion, and was gone through with a considerable amount of effect. Addresses upon the present state of the temperance cause in this colony, with special reference to the manner in which the temperance party had achieved such an amount of success during the recent electoral contests, were made by the chairman, Messrs. Davies, Allen, and Rev. W. Bradley. The entertainment was a very successful one, and all present appeared to enjoy themselves heartily.

A VERY handsome monument has just been placed in St. John's Church, Parramatta, to the memory of the late Sir Edward Macarthur. It consists of a life-size bust of purest Carrara marble, executed by the late Charles Summers, who died in Rome some little time ago. The bust is cut out of one solid block—a very unusual thing—and the basement bears the inscription, "In memory of Lieutenant-General Sir Edward Macarthur, K.C.B., eldest son of John Macarthur, Esquire, of Camden and Parramatta. Died, 4th January, 1872. Erected by his widow."

THE residents in the vicinity of Mosman's Bay have lately had occasion to complain of the annoyance caused by numbers of larrikins who usually congregate at Mosman's Bay and Shell Cove on Sunday afternoons, and annoy people by their disgraceful conduct. On Sunday afternoon last constables Skinner and Wearne, of the Water Police force, acting under instructions from sub-inspector Donohoe, proceeded to Mosman's Bay, where they came upon a number of larrikins, who were gathering oysters from the rocks. Finding they were discovered, the larrikins made off in a boat, but were pursued by the police. On approaching Mrs. Macquarie's Chair they noticed the police launch following them, whereupon they got ashore and abandoned the boat. The police seized the boat, which was found to contain several bags full of oysters, together with implements for gathering the bivalves. The names of several of the offenders were obtained, and the police intend to take proceedings against them.

THE masters of several of the steamers which followed the sculling race on the Parramatta River on the 13th instant, between Michael Rush and William Trickett, were proceeded against at the Water Police Court, yesterday, for breaches of the harbour regulations in following the race within a specified distance. The defendants, nearly all of whom pleaded guilty, were mulcted in penalties ranging from 10s. to £5.

AN inquiry was commenced by the Marine Board yesterday into the circumstances attending a collision between the Glenelg, a screw steamer of 894 tons, the property of Devitt and Moore, and Harold, Brothers, of South Australia, and the Duckenfield, a steam collier, of 350 tons, the property of Messrs. Brown, Brothers, of Newcastle, which took place off Miller's Point on Thursday last. The captain, the first and second officers, and the chief engineer of the Glenelg, together with the chief mate of the Duckenfield, were examined, to elicit what had been done to avert the collision, and several other witnesses were called, and testified to the positions the ships occupied when it occurred. Mr. F. Rogers appeared on behalf of the Glenelg; Mr. J. Want on behalf of the other steamer. As several witnesses were still to be examined, the inquiry was adjourned until a quarter past 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. W. T. PINHEY, J.P., held a magisterial inquiry yesterday, at the Observer Tavern, George-street North, touching the death of a male infant, whose body was found on a vacant piece of land, off Kent-street North, on the previous day. The evidence showed that two boys, named James Leman and James M'Cole, happened to be playing on the land, and, about half-past 1 o'clock, they discovered the body, which was in a state of nudity, but a portion of a woman's dress was lying near it. They handed the body to Constable Barnett, who conveyed it to the morgue, at the Circular Quay. Dr. Egan deposed to having made a post mortem examination of the body, which he found to be that of a fully-developed male child. There were no external marks of violence upon the body. The child was born alive, and had lived some time afterwards. Mr. Pinhey found as follows:—"I find that the body of the male infant, the subject of this inquiry, was born alive, and that the said infant was wilfully murdered by some person or persons unknown."

JOHN WISEMAN DARGIN, manager of the western branch of the City Bank, appeared at the Central Police Court yesterday, on a charge of embezzling the sum of £4900, the property of the City Bank, and was remanded till Friday. It appears that the manager sent to the western branch to take over the cash last week, and Dargin handed it over minus £4900. The accused has admitted the deficiency. Dargin is well known, and has been connected with banking for about 30 years. Since the cash has been taken over from the western branch, Mr. Neill, the manager of the City Bank, has found title-deeds and valuable shares which will nearly cover the amount of Dargin's defalcations, independently of the fidelity bond held by the bank.

A MAN, whose name is at present unknown, was picked up in an insensible condition on the railway line between Eveleigh platform and the Sydney tunnel last night, about 9 o'clock, and was taken to the Infirmary by station-master Johnson and constable Weir. It is supposed that he fell from the 8.45 p.m. train. He was picked up by the 9 p.m. train. The following description may lead to his identification:—Age, 40 to 45; about 5 feet 10 inches in height; strongly built; dark beard, shaved cheeks and upper lip; a little bald on the head; dressed in shepherds' plaid trousers and vest, black coat, brown overcoat, new elastic-side boots, soft black felt hat, white shirt, and undershirt. No papers were found on him that would lead to his identification, nor had he a railway ticket. 19s. 6d. in silver, a North Shore ferry ticket, and a 'bus ticket were found in his pockets.

YESTERDAY, a man named John Wood, 34, and residing at Redfern, had his right arm broken by a bale of wool falling on him at Messrs. Learmonth, Dickinson and Co.'s warehouse. He was conveyed to the Infirmary, where he was admitted, and the limb set by Dr. Moffitt.

ON Saturday evening, about half-past 8 o'clock, a Waverley omnibus, No. 140, was proceeding along the Old South Head Road, towards Sydney, and when opposite Marshall's brewery a dray was encountered, going out. The driver of the 'bus, John Steel, had to go close in to the kerbstone in order to get past the dray, the road having been narrowed so much by the excavations for the tramway. No sooner had the 'bus got on the side of the road than the off hind wheel gave way, and the vehicle came down with a crush, as did also the horses, and some consternation was created for a time. There were 11 persons on the outside and 7 inside of the 'bus, and, as may be imagined, many of them received a severe shaking. Mrs. Moss and a boy named Alfred Susanes being among those most injured. Fortunately, the driver managed to keep control of his horses; otherwise, the accident must have been attended with far more serious results.

AN assault of a rather serious nature was committed upon a man employed at Scard's butcher's shop, Erskine-street, on Sunday night, at about 11 o'clock. He had just turned the corner of King and Sussex streets when several young men, evidently of the larrikin class, approached him. One of them asked him what was the time, and he took out his watch to tell him, when he was set upon by several of them and beaten very severely about the face, besides being knocked down and kicked about the body. As soon as possible he was taken to Mr. Scard's, where his injuries were attend to. Last night he was so far recovered that he went to the Central Police Station and took out a warrant for common assault against his assailants.

RARELY, if ever, have we read a more sad case of lunacy in a family than the following, which we extract from the Bathurst Free Press of Saturday:—"On Thursday last the Bathurst Bench was called upon to adjudicate in a case in which three idiots, the members of one family, were brought before the Court charged with lunacy. The circumstances surrounding the case, as detailed in Court, were indeed distressing. The father, Joseph Sargeant, at one time lived in Bathurst, but he subsequently removed to the neighbourhood of George's Plains, where he followed farming pursuits. During this time three children, the subject of the inquiry on Thursday, were born. From the first it was evident that they were deranged, and although the best available medical skill was sought, nothing could be done for their relief. They grew up, the three of them being deaf and dumb and terribly deformed. They were never able to stand upright, and have always gone about on 'all fours.' Their parents could make them partially understand what they wanted them to do, and they were perfectly docile, but needed continual watching and care. For the past 10 years the mother has been bedridden, and the care of the three mutes has fallen on the father and the other unaffected children, of whom there are seven. Of late Sargeant has found it impossible to give them all the attention requisite, and he desired, after having sought advice, to hand them over to the authorities. On Thursday they were brought before the Bench, and it was pitiful to see them when in the courthouse. Their ages ranged from 23 years to 28 years, and as they crawled about, gazing with vacant stare or senseless look upon the strange surroundings, the hardest heart present must have been moved with deep compassion. They were ordered to be sent to the asylum for the insane at Parramatta."

THE Dubbo Express of Friday, in alluding to Mr. Norton's condition, says: "We were glad to learn this morning that this gentleman has passed a very good night, and is now much better than he has been at any time since he received the injury. Of course he is still confined to his bed, but he is able to eat and drink and engage in a brief conversation. The extraordinary nature of the case still baffles Mr. Norton's medical advisers, who are being driven to the conclusion that the bullet is lodged somewhere in the skull."

INTELLIGENCE was received in town on Wednesday morning (the Braidwood Dispatch reports) that on the previous day two miners, named Frederick Burton and Albert Parkinson, had met with a watery grave, while attempting to cross the Shoalhaven River in a canoe, a little below the Horseshoe Bend, near Sailor's Gully. The two men, accompanied by Hack, a Chinese, were crossing the river, when their frail bark hit against something, the sudden jerk causing one of the Europeans to tumble overboard. In his endeavours to scramble into the canoe again, it capsized, precipitating the other European and the Chinaman into the water. The latter escaped, but the two white men were drowned. The bodies were found in 40 feet of water by the police.

THE Bathurst Free Press has been shown some very good specimens of copper ore which had been taken from a shaft which a party of prospectors had sunk upon what appeared to be a promising spot. The specimens were taken from about a depth of seven feet, at which depth there were two well-defined walls two feet apart, with coppiferous deposit between them. The land upon which the discovery has been made belongs to Mr. T. Lee, who has leased to the party for a term about 75 acres. The place is about 12 miles from the nearest railway station, and within a short distance of the Wiseman's Creek Copper Mine.

A DISASTROUS fire (the Cobar Herald reports) occurred at Louth on the 22nd November. At half-past 11 o'clock the inhabitants found that a house occupied by a Mr. Lowe, a carpenter, who at the time was away, was on fire. His wife was asleep when the first arrivals broke in and gave the alarm. Everything, with the exception of a buggy, was consumed, including a case of what is represented to be valuable jewels. The loss comes exceptionally heavy, as the couple are at an advanced age. The most serious aspect of the case is that a man is at present in the lockup charged with having deliberately set fire to the place. One witness says:—"I was leaving my house when I heard the expression, 'If the door is not opened I will burn you out.' Being affrighted I approached Mrs. Lowe's premises, and saw a man with one boot off strike a match, and holding his hat to shield the flame from the wind he bent down and lighted the canvas near to the lean-to where the buggy was."

AT the nomination on Tuesday (the Forbes Times states), when one of the candidates was speaking on the question of remission of interest, more than one selector in the crowd called out, "We don't want it." Scores of bona-fide selectors have reiterated the same sentiments to us, with this addition, "that they would like to get more land on the same terms." At the close of Mr. Donkin's meeting, on Monday evening, the chairman, Mr. John Thomas, denounced the thing in toto; and said that, although the remission would put £2000 in his pocket, he would not have it, because he felt assured it would be an injustice to the majority of taxpayers in the country. All honour to him for the expression of such sentiments. A man who will act on such principles is a worthy man to send to Parliament, and we yet hope to see the head of the firm of J. and W. Thomas coming forward to represent the Forbes electorate.

DURING the thunderstorm on Thursday evening (says the Burrangong Chronicle) a daughter of Mr. Wood, Spring Creek, met with a sudden death. She was only 16 years of age. Between 8 and 9 o'clock she took it into her head to sit by the fire. The storm was then in full swing, lightning illumined the room in which she sat, and one flash, said to have come through the window and passed up the chimney, struck her. The girl was able to cry out "Oh," and then fell forward on the fire, from which she was dragged by one of her young brothers. Dr. Hutchinge was sent for, and pronounced life extinct. He noticed great discolouration on the lower part of the face and other portions of the body, but no striking marks of any kind.

THE differences between Sir Francis Weld, the late Governor of Tasmania, and his aide-de-camp, Lieutenant-Colonel St. Hill, 19th Foot, who also occupied the position of Commandant of the Tasmanian forces, will (says the Age) be recollected. Owing to his conduct in connection with certain monetary transactions, Colonel St. Hill was suspended as A. D. C., dismissed by the local Government from the command of the volunteers, and the Governor further reported his case home, in order that he might be dealt with by the Imperial military authorities. We are informed that the charges were not entertained, Colonel St. Hill being simply ordered (the usual course when an officer on the personal staff has any disagreement whatever with his chief) to rejoin his regiment. As, however, from private reasons, Colonel St. Hill was not prepared again to serve as a regimental officer, he applied to retire from the "effective" lists, on which not only was he permitted, like other field-officers, to retain his rank honorarily, on retirement in the army, but he had accorded to him by his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief the privilege of being placed on the list of officers retired on pensions.

ON Thursday night (says the Argus) a tight-rope performance took place on a vacant piece of ground at the corner of Roden and Spencer streets, and a fatal accident very nearly resulted. It appears that shortly after 8 o'clock Mr. Alfred Rowe, of Ballarat, better known as "Onzalo," the Australian Blondin, appeared on a wire rope, about half an inch in diameter, stretched at a distance of about 20 feet from the ground. There were about 6000 spectators, and the first part of the performance, which included many feats, such as walking in baskets, the chair-and-table performance, and other dangerous tricks, passed off successfully. Mr. Rowe then essayed to carry over a boy upon his back. Unfortunately the boy upon whom he relies, and who is trained to the business, was not in attendance, and he therefore selected a lad from amongst those present. The boy was strapped to his back, and the journey had almost been accomplished in safety, when the boy became nervous and clutched the rope-walker by the neck. He also twisted his foot round that of the man carrying him, and ultimately threw his foot off the rope. As a consequence, the performer fell; but, preserving his presence of mind, he caught the rope with his leg, and afterwards regaining hold by one hand he preserved himself from falling. By great exertions he passed, with the boy upon his back, along the rope to the stage, where the boy was taken off by a policeman. Onsalo then vaulted on to the stage himself. After the boy had been removed in safety to the ground, the performer again crossed the rope and descended on the other side, amidst great applause. In view of the danger involved, a "dummy" will in future take the place of the boy carried over the rope.

A MASS of gold and quartz (says the M. A. Mail) was unearthed on Thursday evening at the Queen Company's claim, Black Hill, Ballarat, weighing about 400 oz., and supposed to contain about 300 oz. of gold. The nugget was found in the furthest point north in the mine, in a flat vein about 2 feet thick and 20 feet above the 500 feet level.

THE Bendigo Advertiser states that a most remarkable accident befel a child, aged 8 years, the son of Mr. Christopher Kelly, of Thistle-street. The servant, in the employ of Mr. Kelly, very foolishly asked the child to bring a large carving-knife to her from the next room, and in doing so the child fell, and the knife which it was carrying, entered the cheek below the right ear, and passing upwards, severed the flesh from the bone and protruded several inches above through the upper part of the head. The knife was at once taken out, and Dr. Penfold, who was in, attended to the injuries inflicted. The knife was a large one, measuring over on inch across, and the escape from a most painful death was a miraculous one.

WE learn from the Melbourne Daily Telegraph that a reception will be given to the Australian Eleven upon their arrival on Thursday next, and will take place at the Town Hall. His Worship the Mayor of Melbourne has issued invitations to a dinner to take place at the Town Hall the same day, to welcome the eleven on their return.

THE Hobart Town Mercury states that at a meeting of the Sydney Exhibition, held on November 23, a statement of accounts was received from Sir P. A. Jennings, showing a balance due of £7 6s. 8d., instead of £66, which was alleged to be due when the previous statement was submitted.

A MAN named Wayman, a butcher by trade, came into Albury (says the Banner) from the country, and cashed a cheque for £25 at the Bank of New South Wales, receiving a draft on Melbourne for £15, a £5-note, and five £1-notes. In the course of the day he knocked about drinking with some young men of a pronounced larrikin type, and, at night, being then more or less under the influence of liquor, he proceed in company with three of the mob up Kiewa-street to Wilson-street, where he was suddenly knocked down and robbed. From the description he gave of his assailants four men were arrested next morning, and at their camping-place was found the draft for £15, also a £5-note. The four men were brought up at the police court on Thursday, when one of them succeeded in establishing an alibi, and the other three were committed for trial.

MESSRS. MELHADO AND CURTIS are advised that the yield of the Band and Albion Consols for the past week has been about 360 oz., not 390 oz., as telegraphed to them on Saturday.

THE INTERCOLONIAL CONFERENCE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

The Conference met at 10 o'clock this morning, and held a long sitting. Resolutions were carried affirming the desirability of establishing a Supreme Court of final appeal for all the Australian colonies, and also agreed that warrants in cases of absconding debtors, or men who deserted a wife and child, should be executed in all the colonies on behalf of the colony in which the offence was committed. A paper was handed in by Mr. Mann, of South Australia, showing to what extent he agreed to the proposals of Sir H. Parkes on the Border duties question. Mr. Berry also put forward some views which he calculated would lead to a settlement of the same question. The Conference at its rising adjourned to Wednesday. As the representatives of the other colonies say they cannot remain here after Friday or Saturday, it is likely they will meet again at Sydney after the Christmas holidays, in which case the resolutions will be re-submitted to the larger Conference.

WEST MAITLAND, MONDAY.

At Campbell's Hill Yards to-day, Brunker and Wolfe disposed of 217 cattle, 40 sheep, and 16 lambs, and 37 pigs. Best bullocks brought from £4 to £5 0s 6d.; cows, £3 7s 6d to £3 15s 6d; sheep, 9s 6d; lambs, 7s 6d; pigs, 7s 6d to 20s.

A rather cleverly-written pamphlet has recently appeared in England, entitled "The Doom of the Great City." It is a brochure in the style of the "Battle of Dorking," and purports to be a narrative of a survivor who witnessed the destruction of London in 1882. The agency of destruction as pictured by the author is a dense fog, the awful result of thick mephitic vapours, of which he writes with a considerable amount of power.

A well attended meeting was held at the Exchange Hotel, last night, having for its object the raising of funds to enable Mr. Elias Laycock to row the Champion Sculler of the World, for the Championship, on the terms which Mr. Hanlan has imposed, namely, £1000 in addition to the regulation stakes of £200. Amongst those present were Messrs. W. Cope, W. Bull, sen.; G. H. Reid, M.L.A.; N. Lockyer, R. A. Watson, F. Isler, D. Murray, W. Thompson, E. Sparks, and W. R. Benson.

Mr. RICHARD HILL was voted to the chair. He said they had learned that the sporting men of England were desirous of bringing about a match between Laycock and Hanlan, but a difficulty had arisen inasmuch as they had not yet subscribed the necessary £1200 which Hanlan was exacting. The object of the meeting was to enable the friends of Laycock—and he presumed these were numerous, now that Laycock had achieved great successes, having beaten every one he had met except Hanlan—to see if they could assist the sporting men of England in getting the money together. He then read telegrams from the Sydney papers, to show that £400 had been subscribed in England, and that the efforts to bring about the match were likely to result satisfactorily. He also stated that some of their friends had come forward in a liberal spirit to aid the object in view, but with the express understanding that if Laycock won the wager, the £200 were to go to him, while the money subscribed was to be returned to the subscribers. He then read a list of gentlemen who collectively and in less than three hours had promised him £275; and he thought that if others, in common with himself, put their shoulders to the wheel, there would be no difficulty in getting the £1000 together. A gentleman, he might mention, had interviewed Mr. Walker, of the Telegraph Department, who had promised, if they desired to send a cablegram to England, to keep the line clear until 9 o'clock, and to endeavour to cause the message to reach London in three hours. It was now for the meeting to say what should be done.

Mr. W. COPE moved that a subscription list be opened for £500, and that the chairman be solicited to act as treasurer. This was duly seconded and carried, and Mr. Hill, not only accepted the treasurership, but promised to do all in his power to further the object in view. It was then resolved that Mr. W. R. Benson should act as secretary.

Mr. BENSON thought they might attempt to ascertain how long a time would be allowed for collecting the necessary amount.

Mr. G. H. REID thought that if people understood that they had to subscribe the money in a day, they would do so. To his mind it would be a disgrace to New South Wales if the English sporting public were permitted to subscribe this money. The manner in which some of the people of England had taken up Laycock's cause—Laycock who had gone home without any friends—was, to his mind, one of the most pleasing features of these aquatic contests. The Sydney oarsman had already earned their confidence to such an extent that, when they found him in a dilemma, they rallied round him to express it towards him as a sculler and a man; but if they were willing to subscribe £50,000 Sydney should not permit them to do so without having some share in the stake and supporting Laycock in his manly endeavour to beat Hanlan. He felt himself rather in a dilemma inasmuch as though he had plenty of zeal he could not subscribe so handsomely as several gentlemen, but he certainly intended to go a little beyond the limit of that which he could afford, and a man could not be expected to do more. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BULL, sen., thought they might send £500 at once, as he was sure that amount would be made up.

Subscriptions were then given in, which resulted in £361 being obtained. The chairman was hurriedly thanked for his services and immediately left with Mr. Reid for the Telegraph Office to transmit to the Editor of the Sportsman, in London, information that that amount was being forwarded to him, and that more was to follow.

NEW SOUTH WALES RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The entries for the annual meeting of the New South Wales Rifle Association to take place during the week ending December 11 closed last night. They do not come up to last year's entries, but this may partly be accounted for by the brigade order shutting out the old volunteers taking part in the purely volunteer matches, as they do not care to enter for two or three matches only. The total numbers received up to date are as follows:—

No. 1, Queen's Match, 119 entries, 105 prizes and the National Rifle Association medal and trophy; No. 2, Recruits' Match, 17 entries, 16 prizes and trophy; No. 3, the Ladies' Match, 108 entries, 36 prizes; No. 4, Cadets with rifles, 55 entries, 10 prizes and trophy; No. 5, Cadets with carbines, 69 entries, 15 prizes and trophy; No. 7, All-Comers, 22 entries, 4 prizes; No. 10, Naval Brigade Garrison Gun Match, 140 entries, £25 in prizes; No. 13, Match for Fowling-piece, 104 entries, fowling-piece valued at £30, and 9 other prizes; No. 14, Members' Match, 84 entries, 22 prizes; No. 15, The Governor's Match, 84 entries, £10 in prizes, and gold medal of the association; No. 16, The Hordern Match, 82 entries, £10 in prizes, and silver medal of the association; No. 17, Artillery Garrison Gun Match, no entries, £50 in prizes and trophy. The Naval Brigade Garrison Gun Match was fired on Saturday last. No. 6, which does not appear in the above list, is a team match, and nominations have to be made on Friday, the 10th December. No. 8 is the International, for which nominations will be made on Saturday, the 11th December, and No. 9 is the Merchants' Match, for which entries will be received throughout the meeting. No. 11 is a challenge match, and nominations will be made on Thursday, the 9th December. And No. 12 is a company challenge match, for which entries will be received up to the night of the 9th December. The Artillery Garrison Gun Match (No. 17) has not yet been arranged for, that being left in the hands of the officer commanding the Artillery; and the Skirmishing Match (No. 18) will remain open until Thursday, the 9th December. The Members' Match will be fired on Saturday morning, and competitors can enter up to the time of falling in, namely, 8.10 a.m. Further entries for the Recruits Match will be received until Monday next.

CRICKET.

NEW SOUTH WALES CRICKET ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of the above association was held last evening, at Tattersall's Hotel, Mr. R. Teece in the chair. Mr. Beal, on behalf of the Intercolonial Selection Committee, stated that the committee had thought it wise to reduce the number of players to thirteen, and he had been requested to suggest the advisability of sending that number to Melbourne, as there were two or three of the team about whom the committee would be able to form a better judgment after practice in Melbourne. He also stated that he had written to Evans asking him if he would play in the match, and had received a reply in the affirmative, provided Evans obtained the necessary leave of absence. The 13 selected are as follows:—Allen, C. Bannerman, Evans, Garrett, D. Gregory, A. Gregory, Hiddlestone, R. Hall, S. Jones, H. Massie, R. Seale, Tindall, and Wearne. The members of the team would probably receive free railway passes, and the only expense the association would be put to would be the coach fare from Gerogery to Albury, and hotel accommodation in Melbourne; and as the association was very anxious to win the coming match, he thought the extra expense might not be objected to. The secretary reported that in accordance with a resolution carried at a previous meeting he wrote to the Australian team with reference to the proposed combination match, and upon his own responsibility asked if any of the eleven would take part in the intercolonial matches. In reply he had received a telegram stating that the eleven were willing to play a combined team after the intercolonial match, but that none of the team would play in intercolonial matches. He confessed that he was disappointed at the refusal of the team to play in the intercolonial contests, as it was distinctly understood when the Australian team was formed that they would do so; and it would be well if the association in future declined to give its support to any team going to England if the members did not pledge themselves to take part in intercolonial matches. He thought the least the eleven could have done for this, as well as the Victorian Association, was to come forward and play for their respective colonies. He wrote to Mr. Budd (hon. secretary of the Victorian Association) in reference to the combined match, and had received a reply, stating that the association fell in with the proposal and would do all it could in the matter. It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Gibson, that the patronage of the association be given to the Australian team in the combined match in Victoria, and the 18th, 19th, and 21st February were fixed as the dates for the return intercolonial match. It was also decided that the team to represent this colony in the intercolonial match, to be played at Melbourne in December, should leave here on the 15th proximo. The meeting then terminated.

A match was played at Petersham, on Saturday, November 27, between the 1st Petersham C. C. and 1st Warwick C. C., the game resulting in a draw greatly in favour of the Petersham C. C.:—

A match was played on Saturday last at Stanmore, between the first elevens of the St. Leonards and Stanmore Cricket Clubs, resulting in a victory for the local club. The visitors went first to the wickets, to face the bowling of Messrs. Farnsworth and Wisdom, the latter gentleman's bowling being most effective, obtaining 7 wickets for 29 runs. Messrs. M'Lean and Chatfield batted well for St. Leonards, gaining 20 and 16 runs, respectively. For Stanmore, Messrs. A match between Newington College and Gladesville clubs was played at Gladesville on Saturday, and resulted in an easy win for the college team, who completely "turned the tables," and reversed the decision of the previous match. The batting of Mr. Coates, the bowling of Howard and Murray, and the general fielding of the boys, brought about this unexpected result. The wickets were in excellent order, and the visitors met with that pleasant reception which always makes a contest with Mr. Betts' team so thoroughly enjoyable. We append the full score:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I cannot bring myself to believe that your article on the subject of University management and teaching is an attack upon the governing body of the Sydney University; but I am half inclined to think that it is the precursor of more severe criticism, and that the writer of that article has a good deal more to say, which, to judge from his remark àpropos of Sir Josiah Mason's new Birmingham College, is likely enough to be in the way of disparagement.

However, those who have been concerned in settling the curriculum of the Sydney University certainly cannot reproach themselves for making that institution a seat for "mere literary instruction and education," like some of the Universities of the mother country. I consider that we owe this freedom from the classical and literary yoke to the wise influence of Sir Charles Nicholson (an absentee who, by the way, is already very heavily taxed by duties which our University casts upon, and needs no new absentee's tax). But there is still a vast amount of work to be done before we can boast that modern science is adequately taught by our highest teaching institute. And would that we had a few Sir Josiah Masons to help in founding special chairs and readerships in such necessary branches of scientific culture as engineering, electricity and magnetism, architecture, agricultural chemistry, physiology, comparative anatomy, botany, music, photography, and other subjects which now are so conspicuous by their absence from our curriculum.—

I am, &c., A MEMBER OF THE SENATE.

ALARMING OCCURRENCE IN A WILD-BEAST SHOW.—While Bostock and Wombwell's menagerie was exhibiting at Beaminster, Dorset, a naphtha lamp ignited the canvas covering immediately over a caravan containing a lioness cub, some bears, and other wild animals. A panic ensued among the spectators in the place, numbering some 300, and they rushed madly to the doors. The intelligence of the accident soon got wind, and such was the alarm created in the town that the inhabitants bolted the doors and windows of their houses, and were afraid to venture into the streets. Fortunately, it was not long before the fire was got under, and though the animals were naturally restless and excited, they were kept under control. About half the canvas covering of the menagerie was destroyed, but no further material damage was done.

AMUSEMENTS.

ENGLISH OPERA.

The opera season of twenty-four nights was inaugurated last night, not with Balfe's "Rose of Castile," as originally intended, but with an opera which has particular attractions for a Sydney audience—Wallace's "Maritana." The crowded state of the house and the enthusiasm with which portions of the opera was received proved the strong hold on the public favour which the music still possesses. Of the opera it is unnecessary to speak, for, whatever its merits or faults, it has long passed the ordeal of criticism; the set ballads ushered in with a flourish of trumpets; the preludes, during which the principal singers by turns step to the front of the stage, sing their solos, and receive their applause; the pretty orchestration, and yet the purposeless style of much of the music—all have been discussed again and again. Musicians may grumble, but the public will have its way, and "Maritana" has perennial charms. And quite as definitely settled as the position of the opera is the rank ascribed to the artist who undertook the part of the valiant yet vagabond Don Cæsar de Bazan. The first appearance of the impecunious Count was greeted as only one pre-eminent in favour could be welcomed. To Australians the Don Cæsar of Mr. Armes Beaumont is unapproachable, and his performance last light was emphatic evidence of the wisdom of their decision.

The heroine was essayed by a stranger to Sydney, Miss Elsa May, a young lady, Australian by education if not by birth, who appeared in opera in Melbourne, early this year, and has since been singing in Adelaide. It is needless to remind our readers that the company's season has opened under very painful circumstances; and a wide margin must be given for the nervousness attendant on a first appearance. Miss May has youth, and sufficient personal charms to be attractive on the stage, and she has also a soprano voice, not very powerful, but of pure quality and extensive compass. Last night she frequently sang sharp, particularly when exerting the full power of her voice, and this seriously interfered with her artistic success, although the large audience were demonstrative in their applause, and resolved to be pleased. Miss May's best vocal efforts were in the concerted music after the hasty nuptials — part of "Sainted Mother," "Scenes that are Brightest," and the duet with Don Cæsar in the last act. The tenor lent every possible aid to the soprano, and the conductor also promptly came to her assistance, and, by suddenly stopping his orchestra, covered some exceptionally erratic phrasing.

Miss Lambert, as Lazarillo, looked and sang better than she has done for a long time; her performance throughout was most praiseworthy, and the encore for "Alas, those chimes," a well-merited compliment. Mr. Farley, who has not been heard in Sydney for some years, and who during the interval has been studying in Italy, was the reprobate Don José; his reception was most hearty, the music has rarely been better interpreted, and had the singer chosen he might have repeated more than one song. The part of the King was given to a singer with a good voice, but the dignity of royalty was far too great for him; in bearing and manner it was a burlesque; had the voice alone been requisite he might have succeeded, but all the Don's chivalry and gallantry were necessary to protect his Majesty from a ridiculous fiasco. The chorus sing out well, and on the second night will doubtless be in greater force than on the opening; occasionally they required great vigilance, and Mr. Van Ghele kept them well in hand, though the batôn was heard as well as seen. The orchestra at the Royal is generally very good, and it is now strengthened by several additional players; they all worked well; the 'cello has some prominent passages, and all were effectively played. The Marquis and Marchioness were as usual amusingly absurd, and their eccentricities, like the rest of the opera, were warmly recognised. Mr. Beaumont declined encores for each of his songs, each was fully delivered, and showed that the vocal power the artist was vigorous and pleasing as ever; and the trio, "Turn on Old Time," was one of the brightest bits of the evening's enjoyment. The opera was well put upon the stage. To-night the "Rose of Castile" will be given, and Mdme. Heraee will play the part of the Queen.

The management has, wisely we think, kept to the usual scale of prices at the theatre, and from the gathering and spirit displayed last night it is evident that there is every disposition to support the company. Music is so seldom heard here that we rejoice when a deserving combination receives the encouragement due to such an ennobling entertainment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

This place of amusement was fairly attended last night, when the drama of "Under the Willows," a play in six acts, was presented for the first time. The drama borders very much upon the sensational, but nevertheless it abounds with several striking situations, and has a good deal to recommend it. The principal character in the piece was sustained by Mr. W. H. Leake, whose Antoine Thibeaut was an exhibition of masterly and finished acting. Mr. Leake always plays with an easy grace, which at once secures for him the approval of the audience; and last night, although Thibeaut comes to a bad end, he carried his audience entirely with him throughout. Mr. H. Vincent played the part of Albert, the son of Count de Faveolles, with much vigour, and was rewarded with a well-deserved round of applause for his acting in the last scene, in which he slays Thibeaut in a hand-to-hand encounter. Miss Kate Douglas as the Countess had a large share of the drama allotted to her, and in justice to that lady it must be admitted that she sustained the character in a pleasing and natural manner, which earned for her the entire satisfaction of her audience. Mr. Sefton as the Count, Miss Melrose as Helene, and Mr. J. Martin as the Duke of Lounsville filled their respective parts well; and a word of praise is due to Mr. H. Leston for the amount of dry humour which he infused into the subordinate part of Maricon, the servant. The play is well put upon the stage, the boudoir scene in the fifth act being set with good taste. The drama will be repeated during the week; and "Kerry Gow" is announced for Saturday next.

OPERA HOUSE

The two-act drama of "The Female Highwayman" was again produced at the Opera House last night, followed by "The Anchor of Hope." The house was thinly attended, but if the audience was not a numerous one the applause which greeted the efforts of the company in the two dramas was both frequent and vociferous. Mrs. Edmund Holloway, in the character of the Female Highwayman, in which she assumes highwayman's garb, to secure papers of vital importance to her husband, again asserted her supremacy in the den of thieves, where her life hangs upon a mere thread, and, indeed, each member of the company seemed to revel in the blood-thirsty element of the drama. "East Lynne" is announced as in preparation at this theatre.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It must be quite two years since Mr. Justice Windeyer, then a member of the Legislative Assembly, moved in the House a motion, which was carried, affirming the desirability of establishing a high school or schools for girls. Such an institution was then looked upon as a necessity, and it was confidently hoped by heads of families that the resolution of the Assembly would have been speedily carried into effect. Such, however, has not been the case.

It is now about eight months since the Public Schools Act came into force, and surely it is time that this most desirable institution for the public good was established? The extreme pressure of work consequent upon taking over the schools from the Council of Education, and starting upon a new basis, must by this time have been overcome, and it is only a matter of simple justice to the female portion of the community that their claims to a high-class school should be considered and acted upon. Perhaps the Hon. Sir John Robertson only wants his attention publicly directed to this matter.

Hoping that by the new year this great necessity may be an accomplished fact, and trusting to your advocacy in this cause.—I am yours, &c., S.

On the motion of Alderman Burt, seconded by Alderman Torning, £25 was voted for carrying out works in Morehead-street. The Council then went into committee to consider tenders for kerbing and guttering the west side of Mary-street, and, on resuming, the tender of James M'Gregor was accepted. On the following day, the 30th instant, a poll for the election of an alderman, in place of the late Mayor, Alderman Veseys, took place, the candidates being Mr. John Nelson and Mr. Robert Gibson, which resulted in the return of Mr. John Nelson. On Friday, November 12, a meeting of the Council was held. Present—the Mayor (Alderman Evans) with Aldermen Marsden, Gray, Burt, Harrisky, Torning, and Nelson. The declaration of acceptance of office by Alderman Nelson being read, he took his seat. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. ANOTHER MASSACRE IN THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS.

Intense excitement was felt in mercantile and shipping circles yesterday morning when it became known that H.M.S. Sandfly had arrived from the Solomon Islands, that the commander and five of her crew had been killed by the natives at a small island of the Solomon Group, and that one man had been wounded. From Mr. Bradford, acting-sub-lieutenant, Mr. Coughlan, the boatswain, and A. B. Savage, the sole survivor of the massacre, we have been enabled to glean full details of a foul outrage, the latest of hundreds which have made British seamen and traders abhor the Solomon Group :—

On Wednesday, October 13, the Sandfly being anchored at Tessemboko, Lieutenant-commander Bower left in the whaleboat to survey the east coast of Florida Island from Barranaga, intending to be back on the 16th. With him he took a crew of five men :—Francis Savage, A.B.; Benjamin Venton, of Bethnal Green, London, A.B.; Alfred Carne, Southwark, London, A.B.; William Paterson, Belfast, Ireland, A.B.; and John O'Neil, Southwark, London, A.B.

The 17th, 18th, and 19th passed without their returning, and on the 20th the schooner weighed anchor, and made for the east coast, Mr. Bradford sending the gig round one side, and going himself round the other, so that a thorough search might be made. The gig was commanded by Mr. Coughlan and manned by four seamen, all being well armed, and the start was made from East Point. When near the south-east coast of Florida Island, a canoe was noticed coming off from the coast, but as the gig neared it, the four men in the island craft rowed for the shore, closely pursued by the gig. The canoe was beached and Coughlan seeing a number of natives on the beach—he estimates their number at 150—halted the gig without beaching her, and opened parley with the islanders. One of the occupants of the canoe—a chief, whose name was afterwards found to be Billy—spoke a few words in the native tongue, and immediately the peaceful-looking people on the beach appeared armed with spears, and bows and arrows, and English tomahawks. It afterwards transpired that round a little promontory lurked two well-manned war canoes, and that had the gig been beached her crew would have been riddled from front and rear with a shower of spears. Coughlan, however, was too cautious not to turn his gig's bow seaward, and to have his men ready for a skirmish, and so open hostilities were waived in favour of an attempt to decoy the Englishmen to their death. "Come in! Come in! Canoe come in, and you come in," shouted Billy; and then added "I speak." Some native words brought out one Jack, an islander, who could speak pigeon English. "I Jack, I savee Louis (Mr. Nixon, Master of the schooner Pacific), you savee Louis?" said this worthy. "Yes," answered Coughlan. "Boat gone to island, all same Savo," rejoined Jack, "5 fellow oar, 6 fellow men"—alluding to the commander and his crew. Coughlan knew that this was the Sandfly boat, and so pulled back to the ship with the news. They then went to East Island, then along the coast, where in the evening they saw many fires burning, and where they flashed lights and did everything that might possibly attract the wanderers; and they noticed that the beach was literally alive with natives, dancing and yelling like fiends. They reached Mboli Harbour at 1.30 a.m. on Thursday, and about 8 o'clock Coughlan, with two men—all well armed, and on their guard—went on shore and made coffee, but none of the natives would own that they knew a word of English. The gig then went right round the island, and through Sandfly Passage—traced and named by Lieut. Bower—and so returned to the vessel, to find Savage on board, with the melancholy news of the massacre of which he was sole survivor. It may be stated that Mr. Coughlan touched at Nogu Island, and searched it thoroughly. He saw the naked headless bodies of the missing crew, but they were baked black by the sun until they looked like natives, and it was only when Savage told his story that the men could manage to examine and identify them.

When the whaleboat left the ship on October 13, her crew rowed to Seserga, where the captain took a sight; and there they stayed that night. Next morning they rowed to East Island, and camped there on Thursday night. On Friday they pulled over to Lavinia Bay on the mainland, the spot where the terrible Lavinia massacre took place, and the men, answering the cunning questions of the natives, told them where they had slept the night before, thus letting them see that they were away from the ship. From this moment their lives were in their hands, and all that savage cunning could devise—in an island group where a man's importance is reckoned by the number of heads of murdered enemies he can show, and where the head of every well-known trader has a price fixed upon it by the chiefs—was set in motion to cut off that boat's crew. The captain was on shore, but his men kept their firearms ready, and he got safely on board; and kept along the coast, surveying, until he got to Nogu Island, on Friday evening. Here they hauled the boat up and made tea, preparing to camp for the night, in utter ignorance of the fact that even then dark forms were flitting through the dense bush; and that opal eyeballs were flashing at the thought of getting the white men's heads as soon as the camp was silenced in sleep. Canoes had followed the boat, and when it landed the trackers stole round to the other side of the island, and crept through the thickets to an ambush where they could be ready for a surprise. The moment came soon enough. Carne and O'Neil got leave to bathe, and splashed into the water. Venton was told off to look after the boat, to spread out the gear, and to dry it and the boat; and Lieutenant Bower, with Savage and Paterson, went along the beach to do a little more surveying. They went a short distance, and then Paterson returned for something. Soon after, Savage heard yells, and, running back, he saw a crowd of about fifty natives whirling round the boat, and more hurrying through the bush. Returning to the captain, he shouted, "The boat's attacked;" and the captain, also returning to see the truth, was espied by the natives, six of whom broke off and ran for him. He cried, "My God, Savage, it is a case!" and darted into the bush. Savage saw no more of him, but subsequently learned that he had eluded pursuit by climbing a tree. It was now between 5 and 6 o'clock, just growing dusk, and the sky cloudy; and Savage, as he doubled and zig-zagged through the thickets, which reach to the water's edge, knew that his only chance of life was to get away from Nogu; so, after a brief rest, he plunged into the sea and struck out for a little island near the mainland. The tide was strong, and as he got out he was swept back little by little until he was opposite the scene of the massacre. The savages had piled up the fire lit to make tea, and were dancing and shouting round it, when the clouds broke, and a burst of moonlight showed Savage. With a yell, his foes manned two or three canoes and pursued him. Savage swam for his life, but his pursuers drew up until they were only some fifty yards away, when the moon was once more overcast. When next a gleam of moonlight came the fugitive saw his pursuers far off, making back to their companions. They evidently thought he had gone down. His next danger was from the sharks, which literally swarm round these reefs. At one time no less than three backfins were sweeping round him in that ominous curve, ever growing closer, which precedes a rush; but he splashed faintly, and so kept them off until, after an eight-hours' swim, he landed on a small uninhabited island. This was tabooed to the king of the tribe adjoining the murderers', and Savage rested there in safety during a heavy storm which came on. Next day, on Saturday afternoon, he determined to get over to the mainland, and so made a rough-and-ready raft and paddled across. When he was about 500 yards from the shore two or three canoes put off, and the swimmer was taken on board and conveyed to land. The chief was away, but one of his captors who could speak English said it was "all right," and Savage, to his surprise, was taken to a fresh-water spring and bathed. Then he was robbed of his flannel shirt, his sole remaining garment; but in exchange the English-speaking native gave him a pair of trousers, a jacket, and a hat—ordinary trade goods—and taking him to a hut gave him fish and some kind of bread. On Sunday night the chief returned and tabooed him, and — next best thing — gave him a pipe, tobacco, and matches. But on Monday Savage's life was once more in danger, for he was taken round to Barranago Bay, and all the males in the tribe, about 500 men and boys, assembled for a grand council. Savage was in the centre, and from looks and gestures, he could see that he was being spoken of; but definite information he could not obtain, since to every question the English-speaking native returned only a grunt. Afterwards this man became more communicative, and confided to him that he was quite safe now, and would be kept until Louis (Captain Nixon, of the Pacific) came along. The party then took to fishing with no less civilised an agent than dynamite, which they knew perfectly how to use. The captive saw in their possession Snider rifles and plenty of ammunition. The chief was one Timbacora. The interpreter, who was Captain Nixon's trading agent, gradually told Savage of the fate of his companions.

The tree into which Bower climbed was a very conspicuous one, situate near the shore, but the captain expected to escape observation there. The murderers sought him in vain that night, but next morning they paddled all round the island, and seeing him in the tree, landed and shot him twice through the body with the rifles they had taken from the boat. He dropped to the earth, and then a series of nameless horrors ensued. When found his body was naked, headless, and divested of the right arm, and great pieces of flesh were stripped from the back. The men who were bathing had been clubbed at once; Paterson, taken from behind, had shared the same fate; but Venton, who had time to seize a boat-stretcher, fought hard for his life, as a native afterwards admitted. "One man very strong," said the interpreter to Savage "plenty fight." The attacking party thought Savage drowned; and as O'Neil's body was not discovered by the Sandfly, though the interpreter said five men were killed, it is likely that it was left in the water where the poor wretch was struck down. Savage was told that the arms got in the boat were "five rifle, one small fellow rifle" (a revolver).

Savage remained near Barranago Bay until Thursday afternoon, when his signals were perceived by the Sandfly. Mr. Bradford sent the skiff for him.

On Friday morning the Sandfly went to Nogu Island, which is shaped like a pear, the thick portion wooded, and the stalk a bare sandspit. On this sandspit, visible a mile away, were two stakes bearing a crossbar, to which the headless body of Venton was bound. The biceps muscle was cut through to the bone, and the wrists were slashed across; he was covered with tomahawk cuts, and the contraction of the fingers told what his death-agony had been. It may have been that he was tortured before he died; he was the only one who was able to strike a blow, and the only one whose body was so treated. Further on, lay the headless bodies of Carne and Paterson; and a little way in the bush Mr. Coughlan discovered the captain's body, under the tree where he was shot. They buried the remains; read the Service over them, and then returned to Barranago, the only safe anchorage near. On Saturday, Coughlan returned to Nogu for a rifle, left behind on the preceding day; and on Sunday Mr. Bradford and eight men, well armed, went into Rita Bay to see if there were any signs of the whaleboat. All that they saw was a jumper lying on the beach, and one of the men went for it. It proved to belong to Savage. They could not get the vessel into Rita Bay; and on Sunday, October 31, Mr. Bradford and his crew again pulled in, in the teeth of a heavy fire from concealed natives. They returned the fire, landed, discovered two water-casks, and a tarpaulin belonging to the whaleboat, burned the village; and were just embarking when fire was opened on them again. Robert Buckle, A.B., was shot through the heart, and a seaman named Whitlock was wounded in the left forearm. On Monday, November 1, the Sandfly weighed anchor for Sydney.

BREACH OF HARBOUR REGULATIONS.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Marsh, P.M., and Messrs. Hale, Jeannerett, and Perdriau, Henry Bellett, master of the steamer Lillie Denham, was proceeded against at the instance of Isaac Lee, an inspector of the Marine Board, to answer a charge of having committed a breach of the Harbour Regulations, in following the boat-race, on the 13th November, between Michael Rush and William Trickett, on the Parramatta River. Mr. Hellyer appeared on behalf of the Marine Board. According to the regulations framed by the Marine Board for the purpose of securing a clear course on the occasion of any important rowing contest, only two steamers are permitted to follow the race—namely, one authorized by the Marine Board to convey the members of the Press, and the other to carry the umpire; and it is further provided that "competitors in any race are not to be preceded, followed, or approached in any description of vessel or boat, within a distance of 300 feet." The Commodore and the Port Jackson Steam Navigation Company's steamer Emu were the only steamers privileged to accompany the race; but several other steamers, which were well filled with spectators, followed more or less in the wake of the race from start to finish. Mr. Lee gave evidence to show that on the occasion in question the Lillie Denham followed the race, and kept within half a mile of the competitors throughout. He cautioned Bellett not to follow the race, but the accused replied that he had no intention of breaking the regulations, although he did not desist from following. The defendant pleaded guilty, but said that he had acted in ignorance of the exact nature of the regulations. Under the circumstances, Mr. Hellyer thought that the justice of the case would be met by the infliction of a nominal penalty; and the Bench being of the same opinion fined the defendant in the mitigated penalty of 10s., together with 5s. costs of Court and £1 1s. professional costs, or, in default of payment, seven days' imprisonment.

Henry M'Leer, master of the steamer Prince of Wales, was similarly proceeded against. The defendant pleaded guilty; but as he followed right in the wake of the race, after being cautioned by Mr. Lee, the Bench considered that the case was one for the infliction of a higher penalty; and a fine of £5, together with costs, was imposed, with the alternative of a month's imprisonment.

William Gray, master of the steamer Bell Bird, was fined 20s. and costs for a like offence, to which he pleaded guilty.

Thomas A. Dibbs, owner of the steamer Eva, was proceeded against similarly to the above. The defendant pleaded not guilty. Richard Johnston, shipwright's surveyor, deposed that he saw the Eva follow the race, on the 13th November, for about half a mile; he saw the defendant on board. In answer to Mr. Dibbs, Johnston stated that the Eva left the starting point some time before the race was started, and she was out of sight before the competitors left the starting point. Sergeant Hegarty, of the Water Police, stated that he was on board the Water Police launch on the afternoon in question; he saw the Eva leave the starting point before the start; when off Putney she lay to, but immediately after the race had passed Putney the Eva joined in and followed the race for about a mile. For the defence, Charles William Gaden, an officer in the Commercial Bank, stated that he was on board the Victor, which was chartered by the Rowing Association to follow the race. The Victor steamed ahead of the Eva, and the Eva was not at any time within a quarter of a mile of the competing boats. The case having closed, Mr. Dibbs briefly addressed the Bench. The section of the regulations under which the charge was brought, he observed, stated that the competitors were not to be followed or approached within a distance of 300 feet, whereas it had been shown by the evidence that the Eva was not within a quarter of a mile of the race. And, again, he contended that the Eva did not follow the race; as a matter of fact when the race was started the Eva was over two miles on the Sydney side in front of the race. There was a picnic party on board the Eva, including several ladies and gentlemen from Victoria who desired to view the beauties of the harbour, and nobody on board cared twopence for the race. When the race had passed the Eva proceeded on her way to Sydney. If he had broken the regulations he was amenable to the law, but the Eva, he contended, did not follow the race, and therefore he had not broken the law.

Mr. Hellyer replied that he did not ask for the infliction of a heavy fine; but in this case there had been an infraction of the law, and he thought that Mr. Dibbs should not be treated differently from the others.

The Bench, after some consultation, were unable to agree, and consequently no order was made.

Phineas Bevan, master of the steamer Pelican, was also charged in the same manner. Evidence was given to show that the Pelican lay-to off Putney, and immediately the race passed she joined in with the other boats and followed the race for about three-quarters of a mile. Mr. Jeannerett, who gave evidence in the witness-box for the defence, stated that the Pelican, of which he was the owner, did not follow the race, but happened to get in the fairway through crossing the river for the purpose of rendering assistance to the Emu, which crashed into the piers of the Parramatta bridge. The Bench sustained the charge, and inflicted a fine of 20s., with costs.

CHARGE OF HARBOURING THE KELLY GANG.

The Wangaratta correspondent of the Argus supplied that journal with the following report of the hearing of the charge against Ann Jones, late landlady of the Glenrowan Hotel :—

Anne Jones, late of the Glenrowan Hotel, was charged before the Wangaratta Bench on Wednesday, under the 275th clause of the Criminal Offences Statute, with harbouring a felon.

Constable Thomas M'Intyre was examined as to the fact of the murder of the police at Stringybark Creek, with a view of subsequently establishing a knowledge of the murder on the part of the prisoner. Nothing new was elicited in this witness's cross-examination.

Detective Michael E. Ward deposed as follows: I know the prisoner, and had frequent conversations with her at her hotel at Glenrowan about the Kellys between October, 1878, and June, 1879; asked her if she could give me any information as to where I could find the Kelly gang; I said it was a pity they should be at large—that they had killed intimate friends of mine, naming the three police who had been shot; I said, "You can have the money, and I would have the credit of capturing them;" she said she had no knowledge whatever of where they were, and that it was not likely they would come to her place, but if she could find out anything as to their whereabouts she would let me know; she said that Hettie, sister of Steve Hart, was stopping at her place, and she would try to find out from her where they were, as Kelly had killed her brother and done away with him; she stated also that Kate Kelly and Mrs. Skillian would not speak to her.

Cross-examined by Mr. Dwyer: Prisoner never showed any hostility to the police; I brought her up from the Melbourne gaol; she always promised to give me any information she could get, and her house appeared to be kept respectably.

James Reardon deposed that he was a railway line repairer, and knew prisoner; some time after the shooting of the police witness said to prisoner, "It was a great pity the Kellys shot the police;" she said, "It was, but if they did not shoot the police the police would shoot them;" I asked her if she would take the reward; she said she would not take any blood-money; she said there were a lot of police after the Kellys, and she gained very well by them; I was in Mrs. Jones's house on the 27th June; on that Sunday morning, about 2 o'clock, my dog made a great row; I went out, and met Edward Kelly about 100 yards from my place; he did not then speak to me; I had some conversation with his mate, and Kelly then presented a revolver, and said he wanted them to take up the line, saying, "I am Ned Kelly;" he took them to the railway station, where there were several people; Mrs. Jones and another woman and the stationmaster were there; Ned Kelly told them in prisoner's presence to pick out what tools they wanted, and, then turning to Hart, said, "Take these men where you want to break the road;" Miss Jones (prisoner's daughter) and the accused went with them; when they returned after taking up the rails Mrs. Jones was still there; she went up to her own house some time after; she returned in about 20 minutes, and said to Ned Kelly, "Come on, old man, and have some breakfast and a wash, it will do you good;" one of the gang said, "There is no room in your house," and she said there was plenty of room; she then said, "Come on and have a drink," and they all then went up to the house; Dan Kelly ordered breakfast, and said he would pay for it; they remained there until 10 or 11 o'clock the next morning (Monday); during the night Ned Kelly asked my wife if she would not like to go home, and she said she would; Mrs. Jones said no one should leave the house until Ned Kelly gave them a lecture; Mrs. Jones locked one of the doors; she might have locked the other; she gave one key to Dan Kelly and kept the other herself; Edward Kelly was at the back, and came and cautioned me not to leave my bed without permission; when the police came and fired, and when the boy was shot, Mrs. Jones said to the bushrangers, "You cowards, why don't you go out and fight them hand to hand?"

Cross-examined: I took up about 22 feet of the rails; I could have done it in five minutes, but took about an hour and a-half to do it; I was summoned here by constable Armstrong; when they returned the four men were all there; an old woman had gone away, and Byrne went and fetched her back; it was Dan Kelly ordered prisoner to get breakfast; I was afraid of my life; prisoner's son was shot in the house; sergeant Steele told witness it was he shot him; that was on Monday morning; young Jones, Miss Jones, and Martin Cherry were shot from outside; I heard that Mrs. Jones demanded compensation from the Government for her house; saw the house burning; there was very little drinking going on in my presence; I know nothing against Mrs. Jones; she kept a decent, respectable place, as far as I knew.

Denis Sullivan, another line repairer, corroborated the last witness's evidence, adding that while the people were all at the station he saw Mrs. Jones give Byrne a drink out of a bottle; Mrs. Jones told her daughter to make ready the breakfast; the daughter was playing a concertina on the verandah; Dan Kelly let down the front blind; he tried to lock the door; Mrs. Jones said, "That is not the key, Dan; I will get you the key;" and went and got it, and she herself locked the door, and handed the key to Dan, saying, "You take this key, Dan, and give me the one you have, as it is the key of the bar;" Mrs. Jones kept the people from going away by locking the door; when the police came Mrs. Jones called the bushrangers a lot of cowardly fellows, and asked them why they did not go out and fight the police; Ned Kelly was not with the three others when she said this.

Cross-examined: Ned Kelly, Byrne, Mrs. Jones, myself, and Reardon were at the taking up of the rails; Miss Jones might have had a revolver; when they returned Mrs. Jones had a bottle in her hand, as well as I remember; Hart asked me to have a glass, but I did not take any; it appeared as if they were all prisoners when Mrs. Jones locked the door, the Kellys as well as the rest of them; I withdraw my statement as to the Kellys appearing to be prisoners; the house was in darkness when Mrs. Jones's boy was shot. I was lying down at the time, afraid of being shot myself; I had never had any conversation with sergeant Steele about the case before it came on; I spoke to the sergeant just outside the court during the adjournment; I drank no liquor whatever in the house that day or night; left the house when all the rest left, perhaps between 9 and 10 on Monday morning; was not in any fright when I was taking up the rails.

To Mr. Chomley: Before I went to take up the rails Kelly tapped me on the shoulder with a revolver and said, "You have to do it;" when the police were coming, Mrs. Jones or her daughter threw water on the fire; saw Byrne with a candle looking for constable Bracken, who had then made his escape; young Cameron said to Reardon's son in the yard, "I think we can go home now;" Miss Jones said, "If you do, I will tell the Kellys;" I repeat that the Kellys appeared to be prisoners, in so far as Mrs. Jones locked the door.

John Lowe, a labourer from Benalla, was employed at Glenrowan in June last; saw Edward Kelly there on the 27th of that month; he took witness to Mrs. Jones's, and then to the railway gate; the four bushrangers were there; James Simson was there; heard Ned Kelly tell some one to open the tool-chest or burst the lock; Mrs. Jones was there outside; she appeared a prisoner the same as the rest.

Mrs. Stanistreet, wife of the stationmaster at Glenrowan, deposed: I saw the prisoner come into my bedroom at about 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, the 27th June; Ned Kelly was outside speaking to my husband; Mrs. Jones first came to the window and said, "Let him in;" I asked who, and she said, "Ned Kelly;" the door was broken open, and then Mrs. Jones came into the bedroom; my husband then came, and also Ned Kelly, and the latter then took them to break up the line; Ned Kelly asked my husband to break up the line; Mrs. Jones was present; Kelly said the police and black trackers were coming up in a special train; he had his armour on; he had one or two rifles and two revolvers; Mrs. Jones went out with Ned Kelly and my husband; Mrs. Jones came back about an hour after; some of the other bushrangers were keeping guard outside; Mrs. Jones said to Kelly if he went over to her place he could have something to eat; when the men came back from the line Mrs. Jones and her daughter were there, and the former told the latter to go and get breakfast for the bushrangers; Kelly was again at her place on Sunday evening, about 5 o'clock, and Mrs. Jones asked Ned Kelly what he would have for tea; he laughed, and said, "Oh, there are plenty of fat dogs about."

Margaret Reardon deposed: Was taken prisoner by Ned Kelly on the Sunday morning, and taken, in the first place, to Mr. Stanistreet's and then to Mrs. Jones's hotel; about 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon Dan Kelly asked me if I would like to go home; I said certainly; Mrs. Jones came in as we were preparing to go home; she said no one was to leave the house till Ned Kelly gave them a lecture, and that every one had better mind their own business; the doors were locked long before that; we were then not allowed to go out, and we were frightened; it was Mrs. Jones who prevented our going; Ned Kelly gave one of my children leave to go home for some bread; Kelly said that Mrs. Jones would give them all something to eat; Mrs. Jones said to Ned Kelly and Byrne, "I have plenty of bread, but I am keeping it for you, as I would not give a bite to half of them inside, as they treated me like a black-fellow;" I remained in the house till the police came.

John Delany, a labourer, and one of the Kelly prisoners, said: Prisoner was there, and said, "Old chaps, I've got you; I have a large company here to-day;" I asked her to let me and my brother home, as she seemed to be a bit of a boss; she said, "No, revenge is sweet; I would give 5s. a head for some more of the Greta ——;" I heard Dan Kelly ask Mrs. Reardon, about 10 o'clock on Sunday night, if she would like to go home, and she said, "Yes, and I would like the others to come too;" Dan Kelly then said, "You all can go," and then moved towards the other; Mrs. Jones put her hands across the door and said, "Go back, and Ned Kelly will give us a lecture;" Mrs. Jones made her son sing "The Wild Colonial Boy;" she said she wished the "Kelly gang would stop there a week;" none of the bushrangers were present when she said so; Kelly cautioned them, saying that if any one passed any remarks after they went away he would shoot them; when the police came Ned Kelly told them all to lie down or they would be shot, and Mrs. Jones said, when the police commenced firing, "This is all —— Fitzpatrick's work."

Cross-examined: I believe my father is a blacksmith; I saw armour on Ned Kelly; I never helped to make that armour, and never knew it was being made by my father; I had a conversation with a policeman about this case; he asked me what passed in the house.

Michael Reardon, also one of the Kelly prisoners, proved having been shot with a slug, which was still in his shoulder; his father had applied for compensation for his wound; saw money in Ned Kelly's hand at Mrs. Jones's.

Edward Reynolds, a farmer at Glenrowan, went with Ned Kelly to call constable Bracken, who came out in his shirt, without arms, and was taken prisoner; when they were taken to Mrs. Jones's, she said, "Here is that —— old Reynolds;" Ned Kelly said, slapping his pocket, "Never mind, he's all right;" went out after, and saw Ned Kelly and Mrs. Jones with her arm on his shoulder; she said, "Look out, Ned, he is going to escape;" witness said he was not, and went back into the house.

William Sandercock, a labourer, proved that when the police came Mrs. Jones put out the lights and threw water on the fire.

This closed the evidence for the prosecution.

Mr. Dwyer contended for the defence that there was no evidence to go to a jury, as the prisoner only acted to the bushrangers as Mr. Stanistreet and others had done, giving them food and endeavouring to conciliate them through terror. The prosecution bore the complexion that it was brought as an answer to the demand of Mrs. Jones for compensation for the loss of her son, for her daughter's wound, and for her house being burned down by the police. He did not, however, blame the Government, for it was essentially a departmental prosecution, instituted by the police to fish for evidence. Mr. Dwyer mentioned during his speech that he was instructed by Mr. Gaunson, whose official duties prevented his being personally present.

The Bench then committed the prisoner for trial at the next assizes to be held in Beechworth.

Mr. Dwyer applied that prisoner be allowed out on her own recognizance on account of her health.

The Bench fixed the bail at two sureties of £50, or one in £100, and the defendant's own in £100.

The Court then adjourned.

EXTENDED SITTINGS FOR CAUSES.

ORIENTAL BANK V. O'BRIEN.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Sir George Innes, instructed by Messrs. Want, Johnson, and Want, appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. Curtiss, appeared for the defendant.

This was an action brought by the Oriental Bank to recover from Lucius O'Brien the amount of a bill of costs incurred by the bank in and about investigating the defendant's title to certain undivided shares or interests in the Underwood Estates, upon which shares the defendant was desirous of obtaining accommodation from the bank. The defendant agreed to pay the costs of the investigation of the title, whether the accommodation should be granted or not. The title was accordingly investigated, and expenses were incurred in so doing. The accommodation was not granted, and the defendant refused to pay the costs; the amount of the bill was £129 16s. 8d. The defendant pleaded—1. A denial of the alleged agreement; 2. A denial of the breaches; and 3. Never indebted to the money counts. From the evidence it appeared that in April, 1879, the defendant applied to the Oriental Bank for a loan of £18,000 on the security he then held in portion of the Underwood Estate. For the purpose of having the title of the defendant investigated the matter was placed in the hands of the bank's solicitors.

The plaintiffs' case was, that the defendant agreed to pay the costs of such an investigation in any event, whether the loan was granted or refused.

The defendant's case was, that he agreed to pay the costs if the loan was granted, and though the title was approved the loan was not granted by defendant on the part of the bank. When the loan was declined the defendant was about to take proceedings at law to recover damages for breach of contract, but before doing so agreed to submit all matters in dispute to arbitration; on the matter being heard an award was made in favour of the bank; very much of the evidence then given was now repeated. The material issue was whether or not any special agreement had been made as to the payment of the costs sued for.

Mr. Rogers addressed the jury for the defendant, contending that no such agreement had been made.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, Q.C., replied.

The jury retired at 2.49, and at 3.10 returned a verdict for the defendant.

MATRIMONIAL AND DIVORCE CAUSES COURT.

MONDAY.

DIBBS V. DIBBS AND BLAIR.

Mr. Dalley, Q.C., Mr. J. H. Want, and Mr. Davis, instructed by Messrs. Daintrey and Jones, appeared for Mr. J. C. Dibbs, the petitioner; Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Mr. John Shepherd, for Mrs. Jane Dibbs, respondent; Mr. G. B. Simpson and Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Messrs. Austin and Faithful, for Mr. C. L. Blair, co-respondent.

This was a suit for divorce brought by Mr. J. C. Dibbs against his wife, Mrs. Jane Dibbs, on the ground of her adultery with the co-respondent.

Mr. Manning applied that witnesses might be ordered out of court, and that an order might be made prohibiting the publication of the evidence until after the end of the case.

His Honor granted the application, and made the order asked for.

Mr. Dalley opened the case for the petitioner in an address lasting for more than two hours, in which he reviewed the whole of the evidence to be given for the petitioner. This evidence was then proceeded with, and was being given when the Court rose.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—MONDAY.

IN THE MATTER OF GEORGE RICHARD DIBBS.

This was an adjourned second meeting. An application for a further adjournment was made on behalf of Mr. Manning, counsel for the official assignee, who was engaged in another court. This application was opposed by Mr. Westgarth, who appeared for Mr. T. A. Dibbs, and dismissed by the Commissioner, on the ground that the meeting had been adjourned once before to suit the convenience of both parties. A claim by the Oriental Bank to the amount of £1781 7s. was put in, and opposed by the official assignee, on the ground of preference. Mr. Johnson (of Want, Johnson, and Want) appeared on behalf of the bank. No evidence was tendered, and his Honor disallowed interest on bill of exchange to the amount of £1 12s. 4d., and admitted the claim at the reduced amount of £1779 14s. 8d. A claim to the amount of £24,010 1s. 5d. was tendered by Mr. Westgarth on behalf of Thomas Allright Dibbs, for money advanced to insolvent. Mr. Laman, who appeared for the official assignee, opposed the admission of this proof, on the ground that the accounts had only recently been filed, and that there had been no time to go through and examine them as to their correctness. It was impossible to say at present whether the proof was correct or not, as the accountant had not investigated the accounts. The Commissioner said it appeared to him that the securities upon the two amounts could not be allowed together, as they seemed to be of a different character. That of Dibbs's Wharf was apparently a distinct partnership existing between claimant and insolvent. With regard to the Eureka property, it seemed to be in a different category, as it appeared to be a distinct conveyance for a specific purpose; but it was impossible that the lump sum could be capable of valuation under the 89th section. It was a question whether any debt could be proved on Dibbs's Wharf until the whole of the stranger creditors had been paid 20s. in the £, and therefore it was absolutely necessary that there should be a division of the securities. It would be necessary to make some further inquiries, so as to be able to say that the proof was a proper one and in a proper form. He would adjourn the meeting until Thursday next for the attendance of Mr. T. A. Dibbs, so that he might be able to identify his former evidence and give any further evidence that it might be considered desirable to bring forward. A claim of £63 15s. by the New Zealand Marine Assurance Company was admitted, and the meeting closed.

The Court then adjourned.

EXTRACT from letter of Private Ward, of the Frontier Mounted Police, Cape Colony.—"I should just like you to see the real farm-house Bread that I bake! The oven is one dug in the ground, and is just large enough to hold our daily quantum of two loaves. We use flour, water, salt, and BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER. My bread often surprises me, it is so light, and white as snow. Some of our men will insist that I have been 'in the trade,' and nothing I can say will convince them to the contrary." POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted yesterday, on the criminal side by Messrs. Hunt, Moses, and Hourigan; and on the summons side by Messrs. Alexander, Frazer, and Bull.

One of the defendants, George Williams, apprehended for drunkenness, was fined 10s. for that offence, and 40s. for assaulting constable Tilson, and other 40s. for assaulting constable Stratfield, the officers who found him suffering from intoxication.

Robert Myers, charged by Mary Ann, his wife, with having put her in fear by threatening language, having an axe in his hand, was ordered to enter into a recognizance with two sureties to keep the peace six months, or to be imprisoned one month.

John Burless was found guilty of having, between 12 and 1 o'clock on Sunday morning, wantonly assaulted John Daley by throwing stones, one of which struck him on the chest and knocked him down, and in consequence he has ever since been spitting blood. To be imprisoned two months.

John Flynn was charged with having assaulted constable Thompson. Defendant, it appeared, wanted complainant to release a prisoner he had in custody, and on meeting with a refusal threw a stone, which cut through the constable's cap and cut his head. To be imprisoned two months.

In the Summons Court, an order was made requiring Frederick Mancer to deliver to George Welsh a horse adjudged to be illegally detained. Some hours were occupied in hearing an information in which Patrick Condon charged James Cosgrove with having assaulted him. Their Worships held the offence to be proved, and ordered the defendant to pay a penalty of 40s. Mr. Castles appeared for complainant, and Mr. Hourigan for the defence.

WATER POLICE COURT.

On Saturday morning, the bench was occupied by Mr. Marsh, P.M., and Messrs. Scott and V. Brown.

John Sugden was fined in the sum of 20s., with the alternative of seven days' imprisonment, for indulging in riotous behaviour in George-street.

David Young and George Behan were mulcted in fines of 10s. each for similar offences.

Yesterday, before Messrs. Lester and Goodridge.

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge, and he was fined in the sum of 20s., with the alternative of seven days' imprisonment. From the statement of the prosecutor, it appeared that Richave had entered the enclosure in order to extort money from people sitting in the park, under the plea of misbehaviour.

Joseph Aldred pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of ales and spirits, and sundry other articles, valued altogether at 38s., from an hotel at Paddington, the property of Elizabeth Hadden. He was ordered to be sent to prison for one month.
